Karpis Faces G-Men Quiz Following Capture

ENEMY NO. 1 IS TRAPPED IN ORLEANS

Gangster Taken to St. Paul For Questioning in Kidnap Cases

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 2.—(UP)—Shackled hand and foot, Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1, was brought to St. Paul today in an airplane chartered by G-men.

The stammering, pasty-faced gunman, captured at New Orleans last night without a shot being fired, probably will be tried for kidnaping William Hamm Jr., wealthy brewer.

Long delayed, the big airplane slid into the airport at 8:45 a. m., and roared directly into the hangar of the 109th U. S. air squadron. Newsmen as well as spectators were barred.

A dozen G-men from the St. Paul headquarters were on guard as Karpis was transferred to a waiting automobile. Ten federal men commanded by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, who made the arrest last night, were aboard the plane.

Quizzed in Two Cases Barely 16 hours after the capture in New Orleans, Karpis was returned to the city where allegedly he engineered two of the nation's most sensational kidnappings, those of Hamm and Edward G. Bremer.

Ten minutes after the Bremer slid into the army hangar, Karpis was at department of justice headquarters.

He will be locked into the "escape-proof" cell at county jail once occupied by Doc Barker, Tommy Touhy, Volney Davis, Willie Davis, and others of the Barker-Karpis gang.

Karpis is the last of the Barker-Karpis mob, although his recent associate, Harry Campbell, still is at large.

Today Karpis, the most hunted fugitive since the days of John Dillinger, was the central figure in the last chapter of the melodramatic saga of the mad band of machinegun killers.

Karpis was loaded into one of five automobiles provided by local agents. He was placed in the back seat between two heavily armed operatives. With two cars preceding and two following, the cavalcade dashed to the federal department of justice offices.

Hoover directed Karpis' removal from the plane.

Karpis, public enemy No. 1 on the G-men's list for over a year, with a $7000 reward on his head, had joined notorious company. The G-men had gotten Machine Gun Kelly, Harvey Bailey, John Dillinger, Baby Face Nelson, "Ma" Barker and her infamous sons—some dead and some alive—and they had gotten him.

Tip Is Received Through mysterious channels, the G-men learned Thursday that the man they wanted, who had been a phantom to them since January 1, 1935, when he eluded his way out of a trap at Atlantic City, was living in an apartment house on Canal street in New Orleans.

Early Friday, the department of justice chartered a twin-motored Douglas transport plane from Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., at Newark, N. J., airport.

Hoover, who was in New York when the information was received, flew in it to Washington, where several of his lieutenants joined him. The plane then proceeded.

Appoint Neustadt Security Director

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—(UP)—Richard M. Neustadt, formerly of Berkeley, Cal., was reported in private advices from Washington, D. C., today to have been selected for regional director of the social security board for California, Washington, Oregon and Nevada.

He was expected to leave Washington Monday for San Francisco to arrange plans for opening regional headquarters here. He would have charge of 11 titles under the new security law, including administration of old-age benefits, unemployment insurance, and federal grants-in-aid for the aged, poor and blind.

PARIS 'SHIRLEY'

Evidence that the Frenchmen who chose her can't be wrong is the remarkable resemblance of Ginette Marboeuf-Hoyet, below, Paris' "Shirley Temple," to the American child star. Chosen from 3000 French girls as Shirley's double, 5-year-old, blond Ginette has sailed for America to visit the real Miss Temple in Hollywood.

Love Theft Held Cause Of Slaying

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—(UP)—Warren Sloat, 42, today ended his partnership in the paint business with Homer Henderson, 26, by shooting two charges of buckshot into Henderson's head.

Held by police for murder, Sloat said Henderson had attempted to extend the "partnership" to include Mrs. Sloat's affections.

Police held Mrs. Sloat as a material witness. She sobbed that she had always regarded Henderson as "a brother" but that "later he had tried to make love to me."

The shooting ended a party at Sloat's home after the parents' inspection of a paint job. Sloat returned from a walk to find Henderson making love to Mrs. Sloat, police said.

"Henderson told me I didn't love my wife, that she didn't love me, and that I was no good," Sloat said. "He ordered me to get out."

Sloat "got out" by going into another room and getting a double-barreled shot gun. When he returned, Henderson was forcing his attentions on Mrs. Sloat, he said.

"His back was to me," Sloat told police. "He turned, tried to jump me. Then he tried to run. I fired both charges at him. He dropped dead on his face. I called police."

Parisian Legion To Keep Building

PARIS, May 2.—(UP)—Four American Legion members today won their defense of Pershing hall here when an official court ruling granted the legion permission to remain in the building under supervision of an administrator from the judiciary.

The ruling, arbitrating the conflict between the legion and the Pershing Hall company, which attempted to eject the legionnaires, decided that the legion groups, including the Paris post, the legion department of France and the Forty and Eight have a right to use of the quarters.

REGISTER TO INVITE COUNTY CITIZENS AS 'GUEST EDITORS'

In order to give citizens of Orange County the benefits that would accrue from a better understanding of the opinions and counsel of practical, prominent citizens of Orange county, The Register will print daily a "guest editorial" written by some citizen. Subject matter of the editorials will be left to the discretion of the "Guest Editor," and the opinions need not necessarily agree with those of the newspaper. Name of the "Guest Editor," of course, will be at the head of each editorial so that readers may identify the author. This will better give the latent talent and wise counsel in Orange county an opportunity of serving the community and of the nation. Public opinion is, of course, the most important factor in good local and national government. A newspaper has quite an opportunity to express opinions and the publisher of The Register believes that there are many people in this community who should be actively assisting in creating sound, practical public opinion. The editorials will appear in a day or two. The first editorial will be written by J. P. Baumgartner, former owner of The Register.

'SNAKE SLAYING' CONFESSED

CRITICS SEE ROAD TO WAR IN PEACE-TIME NAVY BILL

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(UP)—Administration leaders rushed the peace-time record breaking $331,068,000 navy bill to the senate today over cries of big armament critics in congress that it marked the road to war.

The house without a record vote passed the bill late Friday after leaders had threatened to hold a Saturday session and its critics roared that it was the beginning of a world armament race.

The 40-page bill not only broke previous peace-time records for similar appropriations but set a new floor pace for such measures. It took only a day and a half, despite stubborn opposition, to put the bill through the overwhelmingly Democratic house.

And then not a comma was inserted or a word changed as reported by the house appropriations committee.

As the bill reached the senate, funds were carried for continuing construction on 84 warships, for beginning construction of two 35,000-ton battleships, 12 destroyers, six submarines and 333 airplanes.

It authorized also increasing of marine corps strength from 16,000 enlisted men to 17,000 and augmentation of the navy's strength from the present 92,500 men to 100,000.

Chairman Carl Vinson, D. Ga., of the house naval affairs committee, co-author of the Vinson-Trammel act to build a treaty navy "second to none" by 1942, defended the bill. He supported a clause to permit the construction of the two battleships after January 1, 1937, should any statutory power to the London treaty attempt a battleship replacement program.

"It is essential that we maintain the 5-5-3 ratio in the inter-

CHURCH OPENS RENEWED WAR AGAINST LIQUOR

COLUMBUS, O., May 2.—(UP)—The Methodist Episcopal church today was pledged to a relentless fight against the liquor traffic and for the preservation of world peace, in the Episcopal address of the board of bishops to the Quadrennial General Conference of the church here.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington, D. C., senior active bishop of the church, read the address as a joint message of the church's 30 active bishops.

"We now proclaim to our country and to the world the intent of another Methodist Episcopal church to continue a relentless fight against the beverage liquor trade," Bishop Hughes said. "The liquor traffic is inherently immoral. Legalizing it did not change its character."

The present general conference is the first since repeal of prohibition. On the possibility of another great war, Bishop Hughes said "War under the new inventions is simply too terrible to contemplate."

The address urged removal of private profit from the sale of munitions. It decried heavy armaments. "The United States, yielding to an artificial threat that is usually proclaimed just before appropriations are demanded, is adding to her national debt by making unprecedented increases in military and naval expenditures," it said.

Desert Heat Too Much for Marlene

YUMA, Ariz., May 2.—(UP)—Marlene Dietrich, star of the Selznick International "Garden of Allah" movie being filmed in the desert near here, collapsed today, presumably from the blistering desert heat, causing temporary suspension of work.

While the cameras were recording one of the most dramatic scenes in the play, the actress suddenly crumpled and sank into the sand. Her condition was not believed to be serious. A temperature of 138 degrees was recorded at the film location.

LATE FLASHES

SAN JOSE, Cal., May 2.—(UP)—Franklin Tuttle, 20, a Stanford university student, who claims to be the son of Superior Judge Rag-Tuttle of Nevada county, Cal., was arrested by police today and charged with burglary.

HITCH-HIKER HELD IN SKIER'S DEATH

SALEM, Ore., May 2.—(UP)—William L. McManus, 25, slight, one-armed hitch-hiker, who "just had to use a gun after he had bought it," will probably be returned to Modesto, Calif., from Oregon state penitentiary Monday to face a charge of murdering Elsie De Raas, champion skier, Sheriff Grant Hogan of Stanislaus county, Calif., said today.

Extradition papers will not arrive here from Sacramento until late tonight, Sheriff Hogan said. It will be Monday before they can be honored by Gov. Charles H. Martin.

ROOSEVELT GIVES SLATE APPROVAL

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 2.—(UP)—A personal endorsement by President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the candidates headed by Senator William G. McAdoo as delegates to the Democratic National convention was received and filed today by Secretary of State Frank C. Jordan.

The document also carried a formal announcement of the president's candidacy for re-election subject to action of the Democratic National convention.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes of Washington, D. C., senior active bishop of the church, read the address as a joint message of the church's 30 active bishops.

LAW NABS AND THEN RELEASES REP. ZIONCHECK

SHALLOTTE, N. C., May 2.—(UP)—Marion Zioncheck, the speeding congressman from the state of Washington, spent two hours here today convincing Sheriff J. A. Russ that he had satisfactorily cleared himself of speeding charges at Alexandria, Va.

The Democratic congressman had stopped at the village drugstore while enroute to Miami with his bride.

But the sheriff's wife recognized the couple, and her husband took him into custody. Sheriff Russ said Zioncheck's automobile was traveling better than 50 miles an hour through town.

In contrast to the disorder he has created when previously taken into custody, Zioncheck calmly put through half a dozen telephone calls to Washington, D. C., and Alexandria to convince the sheriff that the speeding matter in Alexandria had been settled. The Shallotte speeding count wasn't pressed.

Zioncheck and his bride, a former Washington, D. C., stenographer, then sped southward. They had spent the night at Beaufort, N. C., and planned to go to Miami, where they would board a plane for El Paso, Texas, home of the bride.

FILM OUSTER IS UP TO SUPREME COURT

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., May 2.—(UP)—The state supreme court today accepted jurisdiction in Attorney General Roy McKittick's ouster suit against four motion picture distributing companies.

The preliminary order was issued and made returnable in 30 days. Companies named in the suit included Paramount Pictures Distributing corporation, RKO Distributing corporation, Vitaphone, Inc., and General Theatre Enterprises, Inc., all doing business in St. Louis.

McKittick accused the firms of forming a combination "tending to result in restraining lawful trade and full competition in the importation, purchase and sale of motion pictures."

Brevity Second, And Indian Broom Third In Big Race Classic

CHURCHILL DOWNS, LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—(UP)—Morton L. Schwartz' Bold Venture won the 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby today before a crowd of approximately 75,000.

Joseph E. Widener's Brevity was second and Indian Broom third. Bold Venture, owned by M. L. Schwartz, won by a head over Brevity.

Cold Stream was fourth and Blen Joli, Col. E. R. Bradley's lone entrant, finished fifth.

Bold Venture took the lead at the three-quarter mile post and held it right down to the finish line. Brevity pulled up into second place in the stretch and held that place down to the wire. Ira Hanford piloted Bold Venture over the mile and a quarter track

FINANCING OF DEFICITS HELD UNSOUND MOVE

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(UP)—The administration's "policy of deficit financing is unsound and fraught with great danger," Prof. Fred R. Fairchild of Yale university told the senate finance committee today.

Testifying before the committee as it considered the administration's $303,000,000 tax bill, Fairchild said it is useless to consider tax increases until the New Deal decides to try to balance the federal budget.

Sen. Tom Connally, D. Tex., interrupted to ask how the budget—now facing a $5,956,000,000 deficit—could be balanced without new taxes.

"Of course, there would have to be moderate taxes," Fairchild replied, "but it could mostly be done by economies."

Sen. Josiah Bailey of North Carolina and Sen. William King of Utah—two Democratic critics of the tax measure—urged Fairchild to give specific suggestions on how such economy could be achieved. He said he could not.

SHIP PILES UP ON SAND NEAR COAST

CHATHAM, Mass., May 2.—(UP)—The S.S. Minnetonka of the New York, 6617-ton passenger and freight vessel, piled up on the sands, 200 yards off Monomoy Point today in a "pea-soup" fog while en route from San Francisco to Boston.

Though the vessel's propellers were out of water early this afternoon, and a sharp list was anticipated late today at low water, the ship was believed in no danger as there are no rocks in the vicinity.

Several passengers were reported aboard the vessel. The Coast Guard Cutters Algonquin and Mojave were dispatched to her assistance.

Monomoy Point juts eight miles seaward from Chatham village. Scene of the grounding was inside of Stone Horse buoy.

The Minnetonka, built at Sparrows Point, Md., 24 years ago, is owned by the American-Hawaiian Steamship company.

SEEK INDICTMENTS OF KARPIS' FRIENDS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—(UP)—A federal grand jury will be asked to return indictments against a group of persons in California and Nevada suspected of harboring Alvin Karpis, public enemy No. 1, captured in New Orleans yesterday, reliable sources revealed today.

Various persons in Auburn, Cal., have identified as Karpis a man seen in that vicinity several times in 1934.

Authoritative sources also revealed that Karpis, under the name of "Burns," lived in Reno in 1932.

In Vallejo, Cal., Thomas C. "Toke" Williams, manager of the city hospital, revealed that the federal government contends Karpis was a patient in the hospital in 1933.

Williams, who is on parole after serving a portion of McNeill Island term imposed for his part in an alleged conspiracy to harbor the late George "Baby Face" Nelson, said he personally had no knowledge of Karpis' presence in Vallejo.

BARBER IS ACCUSED IN WEIRD PLOT

Ex-Sailor Tells How He Helped Husband in Wife Murder

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—(UP)—Charles H. Hope, ex-sailor, confessed today, according to the district attorney's office, that he helped a husband hold his young wife's bare foot in a box of live rattlesnakes in a weird plot to kill her.

When the poison acted too slowly to satisfy him, the husband, Robert S. James, five-times wed barber, then drowned his bride of three months and had Hope help place her body face down in a pond to make the death appear accidental, Hope said.

Hope, detectives said, confessed he bought two batches of snakes for James, profiting $16 on the deal, and helped hold Mrs. Mary James over a table in her own breakfast room while one of her bare legs dangled in the snake box until snakes sank their fangs into the calf and one toe.

Body Carried to Pond Mrs. James, her mouth and eyes taped shut, and unable even to scream in pain, was still alive some time later, Hope said, so James sent him away for a time "while I drown her." He said he helped carry the body to a fishpond where the woman was found later, and the case pronounced accidental death.

Hope, 35-year-old former night manager of a beach cafe, detectives said, boasted of "knowing something" about the case, and his words were related to the district attorney's office by an attorney who heard them. He broke under a slight questioning, Hope said, so James sent him away for a time "while I drown her." He said he helped carry the body to a fishpond where the woman was found later, and the case pronounced accidental death.

Then, told by deputies, that "we have all the evidence we need," he flushed dark red, appeared on the verge of collapse and demanded a glass of water.

"Don't pay any attention to what Hope tells you," he said. "He will tell you anything. He's screwy."

Sverdrup Named to Scripps Institute

BERKELEY, Cal., May 2.—(UP)—Dr. Harold U. Sverdrup, Norwegian scientist who has won international scientific fame as an oceanographic expert, will succeed Dr. T. Wayland Vaughan as director of the Scripps Institute of Oceanography at La Jolla, Cal., the United Press learned today.

Dr. Vaughan, who has been head of the institute since 1923, plans to make his home in Washington, D. C.

GOVERNMENT EVACUATES CAPITAL CITY

Americans Forced to Take Refuge From Looting Bandits

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(UP)—At 5 p. m. the American legation at Addis Ababa in a message reported that the entire city, including municipal buildings, was in flames.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(UP)—Fire was spreading rapidly through the bandit-looted city of Addis Ababa at 11 p. m. (Ethiopian time), the American legation there reported today by radio to the state department.

The Ethiopian government has fled the capital. Whereabouts of Haile Selassie apparently was unknown.

LONDON, May 2.—(UP)—Plundering, burning and shooting, the disorganized remnants of the Ethiopian army today menaced white residents in Addis Ababa, who are besieged in the defenses of the British legation.

Emperor Haile Selassie fled to Djibouti with his family. All civil authority in the town had ceased functioning. Virtually every white resident, including some 54 Americans, were behind the trenches and barbed-wire entanglements of the legation, guarded by 250 stalwart Sikh troops.

Although the defenses were strong and food supply adequate for three months, it appeared to be a race between the mob passions of Ethiopian warriors, enraged by their defeat, and the ever-advancing columns of Italian troops almost within a day's march of the capital.

JOE COLLEGE

Out in the cold world in his shorts went W. J. Goode, below, Rice Institute sophomore, when he insisted on wearing the abbreviated garb on the campus. Clothes "irked" him, said the pre-law student at the Houston, Tex., school, but his partial lack of them irked the powers still more, so he was expelled, then put on probation by the dean.

CHANGES IN CITRUS PACT ARE APPROVED

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—(UP)—The agricultural adjustment administration announced tentative approval today of three amendments giving greater flexibility in marketing of California and Arizona oranges and grapefruit.

The amendments would alter the order for handlers and are being submitted to growers now. To become effective, they must be approved by three-quarters of the growers by number, or two-thirds by volume of fruit produced.

One amendment is designed to increase the allowable overshipment a handler may make in addition to his weekly allotment. He would be allowed to overship, instead of the present 5 per cent, a maximum of 10 per cent or one carload if 10 per cent of his allotment is less than one carload.

The other two amendments would permit growers to exchange allotments for fruit grown in different prorate districts in addition to the existing privilege of exchanges within an individual district. The growers advisory committee would be employed to restrict exchanges.

Parties Prepare Wind-Up For Tuesday Primary

STATE VOTERS GET CHOICE OF FIVE TICKETS FOR SPEEDING

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 2.—(UP)—Months of political skirmishing neared an end today as leaders of five factions among California Democrats and Republicans prepared for the final drive preceding the presidential primary Tuesday.

Most of the interest aroused in the primary came as the result of unusual party splits based upon causes seldom seen in other years when personalities rather than issues were at stake.

In many respects the primary was one of the least important ever prepared for in California. Only five tickets were ready for presentation to the voters—three on the Democratic and two on the Republican ballot. Prohibition, Socialist, Progressive, Communist and Commonwealth parties did not enter the preferential race and will not send officially elected delegates to their national conventions unless their members follow a write-in program.

Points To Be Settled
The only points to be settled, therefore, were the selection of Democratic and Republican delegates to cast California's 44 votes in the respective national assemblies.

On the Democratic ballot the names of President Roosevelt, Assemblyman John Steven McCroarty and Upton Sinclair head three separate lists of delegates. Victory for the Roosevelt group would mean that California's convention votes would be cast in favor of the president's nomination for re-election. Should Sinclair win, or McCroarty, the first ballot of the California group would go to the victor; then the delegation would be released to support Mr. Roosevelt, according to the promises of both Sinclair and McCroarty.

Sinclair's major object in entering the race was a nominal candidate was to rally his Epic followers and carry his production-run-use plan to the convention. McCroarty entered in an effort to further the drive for the Townsend plan. Both made a bid for support of Townsend followers.

The most intensive contest was centered upon the widely split Republican party battle between those favoring Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas and the old guard drive for an uncommitted delegation.

From the beginning of the formal campaigns, these two factions have used as their major accusations the contentions: 1—that the unpledged delegation movement was inspired by and for Herbert Hoover; 2—that Landon's chief supporters are William Randolph Hearst and Gov. Frank F. Merriam, who hope to obtain control of the party in California.

The G. O. P. campaigns have been fought vigorously and this was the only primary issue which was expected to result in a close vote.

Small diamonds have been discovered in meteorites which have fallen to the earth.

ARE YOU FOR ROOSEVELT?

In the event Roosevelt is nominated on the first ballot, the Sinclair delegation will rise and make a motion that the nomination be made unanimous.

And THERE MUST BE A VOTE TAKEN on every such motion made at the Philadelphia convention.

The California Delegation (nominally in the name of Upton Sinclair) will vote that Franklin D. Roosevelt be UNANIMOUSLY chosen Democratic candidate for the Presidency.

And the California Delegation headed by Upton Sinclair will then be on record BY ITS VOTE as favoring the UNANIMOUS re-nomination of the President.

Not only will the California delegation vote FOR Franklin D. Roosevelt but it will be the delegation asking for a UNANIMOUS vote of confidence in Roosevelt. This is another reason why you should vote for the state nominally on the ballot in the name of Upton Sinclair.

GERMAN HELD UP BY GIRL; TELLS POLICE HE THOUGHT SHE WAS 'TICKLING' HIM

Just arrived from Hamburg, Germany, with his knowledge of the English language as absent as Eskimos in a nudist colony, Otto E. Buggenthin, 35-year-old sailor from the passenger ship, Portland, thought the "girl friend" who stuck a gun against his ribs Thursday night at Huntington Beach and commanded him to "stick 'em up" was tickling him, he told officers yesterday.

He made his report, stating the girl, whom he had picked up together with two men, on the pike in Long Beach, had got his watch in spite of the fact he finally became angry and knocked the gun from her hands and escaped. To Deputy Sheriff James Workman. He spoke through an interpreter, Harriet Hagerman, waitress at Sam's cafe, Huntington Beach.

Buggenthin, disillusioned as a today on the Portland, for the two-time divorcee, was to leave town trip to Germany. But first he told his story.

He met the girl and two men while seeing the sights on the pike at Long Beach and, through the sign language, got along fine as the group toured the pleasure piers. They had some drinks. Then the quartet climbed in an automobile and merrily departed for Huntington Beach. Suddenly the girl and her companions produced a revolver. Otto figured they were still in their merry humor. "Finally when they kept poking me and poking me, I got angry," Otto said through his interpreter. "I knocked the gun from their hands and ran fast."

The incident occurred at Coast boulevard and Thirty-eighth street, Huntington Beach. Otto said he hitch-hiked his way back to Sunset Beach by considerable use of his thumb, where he told his story to Sam Lewis of Sam's cafe there. When he returned to Huntington Beach at request of officers, they found his hat broken parts of a dol, won during a merry moment at Long Beach, and took for the maric. Deputy Workman gave the information to Officers Tinsley and Blossom of Huntington Beach, who are carrying on the investigation. Huntington Beach Police Chief Grant escorted the disillusioned German back to his ship at Long Beach. Officers are looking for a 325 German-made watch, initialed "O. B.", two men about 21 years old, and Otto's ex-girl friend, about 18. They have a part of a license number by which they are tracing the car today.

KEN Murray SAYS:

J. Edgar Hoover, Uncle Sam's G-man No. 1, says that before we can eliminate crime, we will have to weed out the politicians who use their influence to obstruct honest law enforcement. "Yes! I think America not only leads the world in modern prisons, but is also the only one that equips them with revolving doors. But in spite of all arguments, our politicians just won't be convinced that a murderer should stay in prison for life. It's just a case of one year, and out the other."

When you think of Dr. Alexis Carrell, of Rockefeller Institute, spending millions to find a way to defer death indefinitely, it really seems like an awful waste. In recent murder cases, politicians have accomplished the same result with only a few thousand dollars.

So remember: In the old days, a crook could get by if he knew his ABC's... but today, most of them stumble over that letter G.

STUDEBAKER PLANS BODY WORKS IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, May 2.—(UP)—Establishment of a new million dollar body plant in Los Angeles by the Studebaker corporation was announced today by Harold S. Vance, chairman of the board for Studebaker, when he arrived to inspect the site of the new building.

Vance revealed that the new addition to the Studebaker production system will serve nine western states and eventually the Orient. It will adjoin the present assembly plant opened last year.

Vance expects to remain here about a week to confer with C. K. Whitaker, president of the Studebaker Pacific Corporation, and perfect details for the new plant.

"The assembly plant's present capacity will be doubled from 50 to 100 cars per day to keep pace with the output of the new body plant," Vance said. "With the completion of the building, about 500 more men will be employed and the Studebaker investment in Los Angeles will be more than $2,000,000."

Man Escapes As Truck Overtakes

Stanley C. Hills, 35, San Diego truck driver, reported to state highway patrol officers last night that his truck turned over on Manchester boulevard a quarter of a mile northwest of Coyote Creek bridge about 9:30 o'clock, but that he escaped injury. He was hauling a heavy load of paper rolls when the truck suddenly skidded and the weight overtaken it, he said.

MCADOO PLEADS FOR ROOSEVELT BACKING

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(UP)—Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo, D., Calif., made a strong plea last night to members of the Democratic party in California to support the presidential delegation headed by himself and I ked to President Roosevelt.

He said neither of the candidates for president on two other Democratic tickets has chance of nomination. He referred to the delegation pledged to Upton Sinclair and that pledged to Congressman John Stevens McGroarty.

"The election of one of these tickets," the junior senator from California said, "would put California in the ridiculous position of supporting someone before the convention who has no chance of nomination and would destroy any influence the state might have in the proceedings of the national convention."

ACCUSED OFFICER SEEKING TIPSTER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 2.—Police Sergeant Patric Shannon set out today to find "Monk," the tipster he says enabled him to run $1000 up to $25,000 at the Tanforan races.

Shannon, who said he kept his race winnings under a woodpile in his basement for three years before investing them and running them up to $55,000, is one of two policemen who have appeared before the grand jury so far in the city's investigation of alleged police graft and vice payoffs.

"I'm going uptown and I think I can find Monk," Shannon said, lounging back in a chair at Central station, where he is a special duty officer.

"He gave me some bad tips and I'm going to try to find out about them," and Shannon, former hood-carrier, set forth to use all the detective skill acquired during 22 years on the police force to find "Monk."

District Attorney Matthew Brady was also hunting for "Monk."

SCHOOL TRUSTEES MAY RESIGN JOBS

BREA, May 2.—Possibility of the necessity of several members of the Brea-Olinda Union High school board and of the Brea grammar school board having to resign their positions is creating no little speculation here.

The question arises from the fact that these particular members are employees of firms that regularly supply the school board with a variety of materials. An opinion on certain sales regulations is being awaited from Attorney General Webb.

The men affected by the ruling will be W. W. Hay, of the Union Oil company; E. W. Curtis, of the Associated Oil company; Harvey Moore, of the lumber firm of Brown-Dauser, all members of the high school board, and J. Howard Robinson, Union Oil company, a member of the grammar school board. All have signified their intention of resigning from the board if, in the opinion of the attorney general, their remaining there would compromise their respective firms in a sales capacity.

PICKETS WATCH SHIP LEAVE
NEW YORK, May 2.—(UP)—The Panama-Pacific liner California sailed today for the west coast while 200 pickets marched in front of the pier. There was no disturbance.

The strikers, members of a faction in the International Seamen's union which demands higher wages, charged that the ship was manned by young students who had lifeboat experience. This was denied by officials of the line.

AMERICANS IN FLIGHT FROM ANGRY NATIVES BILL ACTION

"The situation as far as foreigners is concerned is satisfactory—so far," came the word from Addis Ababa's sole link with the outside world, the terse wireless official despatches from Sir Sidney Barton, British minister at the Ethiopian capital.

The chaotic conditions in Addis Ababa were described in a new report from Sir Sidney to the British foreign office tonight.

Some reports said the emperor was fleeing into exile, to Palestine. Other sources said he might leave the train at some internal point and seek to rally his men.

The emperor's flight brought a response from authoritative sources here to the effect that if Haile Selassie enters British territory, he would be treated as a prisoner of war in his capacity as commander in chief of the Ethiopian army but with all the deference due his imperial rank.

The legal position held by the British government is that Haile Selassie remains emperor in law until he abdicates, although it recognizes he is no longer emperor in fact when he leaves Ethiopia soil.

British authorities reportedly are well aware of the emperor's ultimate destination, but are pledged to secrecy. Sir Sidney is understood to have advised the foreign office regarding the emperor's plans but requested they not be divulged.

Officials here declined to confirm or deny that the emperor will proceed from Djibouti to either Palestine, or to British Somaliland or that he intends to board a British ship.

It was rumored that the chieftain Ras Kassa, the emperor's son-in-law, and Blattan Getta Herouy, foreign minister, were on the royal special train.

British authorities will regard the emperor's reign as terminated in fact, if not legally, as soon as he crosses the frontier into French Somaliland.

At Dire Dawa over toward the coast the railway passes perilously close to the Italian drive in the east.

Britons expect that it will take the Italians many months to pacify Ethiopia, but organized defense, they believe, has collapsed.

UNCLE SAM TO TAKE NO ACTION IN ETHIOPIA

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(UP)—Americans in Addis Ababa have remained there for months "at their own risk" and no American military force will be sent to relieve them, state department officials said today.

Officials were confident, however, that no harm would come to the 50-odd Americans reported today to have sought refuge from maddened Ethiopian natives in the British legation compound.

Great Britain offered the facilities of its Addis Ababa stronghold some months ago and the department informally agreed that Americans would find shelter there in event of trouble.

"Americans in Ethiopia have been warned repeatedly that they remained there at their own risk," a department official said today.

He was asked if American military force would be used to relieve the Americans if more serious trouble developed.

"That," he replied, "is out of the question."

MARE ISLAND CHIEF RELIEVED BY NAVY

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(UP)—The navy department today issued orders relieving Rear Admiral Yancey Williams as commandant of the Mare Island navy yard and assigning him to duty as chief of the special service squadron stationed in the Caribbean.

Williams will be replaced at Mare Island by Rear Admiral Arthur St. Clair Smith, now commandant of battleship division three of the battle force in the Pacific.

Williams, as commander of the special service squadron, will replace Rear Admiral George J. Meyers about August 10.

The special service squadron, based on Guanaacoea bay, Cuba, has been used in the past to protect American lives and property during disturbances in the Central American area.

HERMAN ZABEL TO RETURN ON MONDAY

Herman Zabel, head of the sheriff's bureau of identification, will arrive in Santa Ana by train early Monday from Tampa, Fla., to resume his duties here. He has been in the southern city for the past two months, working on the M. R. McKinstry and P. R. Osborne case, in an effort to bring the men back here for prosecution on grand theft charges arising from alleged blinding of Mrs. Mary Towle, Santa Ana woman, by taking valuable stocks and bonds. McKinstry and Osborne succeeded in getting their case before the Florida supreme court again recently, with subsequent release from jail on bond. The two men have been fighting extradition to California for many months.

'ROAD TO WAR' SEEN IN NAVY BILL ACTION

est of national defense," Vinson said. "Other nations have refused to follow our disarmament examples. If congress will live up to the treaty, it will be a navy sufficient for national defense, nothing more, nothing less."

Vinson's floor remarks were regarded significant in view of Great Britain's announced program to build 38 ships in her modernization program of which two would be battleship replacements.

Rep. Vito Marcantonio, R., N. Y., and Rep. J. William Ditter, R., Pa., member of the house appropriations committee, attacked the bill. Ditter complained the battleship provisions, which would cost an eventual total of $102,000,000, were written into the bill "without a single word of testimony."

Marcantonio charged the administration was building useless battleships while slashing relief funds from $4,800,000,000 last year to $1,500,000,000 this year.

Passage of the navy bill left only the deficiency bill carrying the $1,500,000,000 funds for continuing WPA during the next fiscal year on its "must" slate as the house hurried toward adjournment.

CAPT. MEEHAN AND PETERKIN RETURN WITHOUT ANY TROUT

Disappointment was the paramount registration on the faces of Capt. H. C. Meehan and Officer George Peterkin of the Orange county highway patrol office today as they returned from Camp Osceola, near the headwaters of the Santa Ana river, without the trout limit they went after. And, according to the officers, about 100 other would-have-been fishermen are going around today with the "blues."

All went to Camp Osceola yesterday to initiate the trout fishing season. The officers returned with three or four little trout. Their explanation is as follows, according to Captain Meehan: On April 30, about 2 p.m., a group of government water conservation workers emptied 300 inches of water into the river, lifting its level about one-third and "bolling" the river with mud.

"The trout were busy all day yesterday brushing the mud out of their eyes, I guess," was Captain Meehan's report.

Trujillo was taken to county hospital for treatment for tuberculosis; Mrs. Flores, expectant mother, was released but offered hospitalization, and Flores was ordered to appear in La Habra justice court, according to reports.

KARPIS QUIZZED IN UNSOLVED KIDNAP CASES

ceded to New Orleans, arriving only a short time before the capture.

Less than an hour after the trap was set, Karpis came strolling out and crossed the sidewalk toward his automobile at the curb. In a flash, G-men surrounded him and had his arms pinned to his side. He couldn't have resisted if he had wanted, though he was unarmed.

Other agents went into action at once. They went to the Karpis apartment and, after a struggle, arrested a beautiful 23-year-old girl, whose identity the agents still are concealing, and Fred Hunter, a suspected bank robber.

Karpis and the girl had lived in the apartment as Mr. and Mrs. Edward O'Hara since April 10, when Karpis is believed to have come to New Orleans. Karpis had made at least two mysterious automobile trips since then. Returning from one, he was accompanied by Hunter. Federal men believe that he had gone to a distant city and with Hunter participated in a bon-a-petit. Federal agents suspected him of using New Orleans as a base for a number of robberies.

Federal agents, as usual, kept secret the source of the information that led to Karpis' arrest, but it was said authoritatively that a gossip automobile salesman, Clarence Pucheu, known to his friends as "Duke," had set afloat rumors that reached the G-men.

Rumors circulated that Karpis' woman tipped off the federal agents for the $7000 reward, but these, like scores of others, were without the least confirmation.

Heart Attack Is Blamed for Death of G. Underwood

Death of George Underwood, 60, 1701 West First street, Santa Ana, in county jail early yesterday morning, after he was booked at 12:05 a.m. on a charge of intoxication, was the result of a heart attack, according to an autopsy performed yesterday afternoon at Winbigler's funeral parlors. Coroner Earl Abbey was in charge of the autopsy. Underwood was taken to jail after he was found trying to get to his feet at Fourth and Artesia streets, late Thursday night. He was found dead on his bunk in the jail when Assistant Jailor Frank Cag made his rounds about 7 a.m. yesterday.

U. S. C. PLAYERS DISPLAY RARE ABILITY HERE

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

Richly fulfilling the promise of the opening night that the current tournament of one-act plays would compare favorably with all predecessors during the ten years of this annual Southern California theatrical event, last night's program in Ebell auditorium was one of the best variety of skillful and sympathetic character portrayals, and sheer entertainment value, would be hard to surpass.

Humor, broad comedy, heart-wrenching pathos, drama and reverent beauty each in turn held the center of the stage, providing satisfying entertainment for every possible taste in theatrical performance. The audience, quite large as on the opening night, was a responsive one, quick to express interest and appreciation.

Announcements of slight changes in one of the casts, and necessary explanations of points in the different plays were made by Mrs. Robert Horn, who as tournament director this year, has displayed fine executive ability that has won her the appreciation of her own Santa Ana association, and a fine cooperation from all visiting players.

"Love Must Be Changed," the clever original one-act by Margaret Gower was, was the host association's courtesy play with which last night's program opened. Like Miss Lella Watson's play, "Red Bubble," on the opening night, it was followed with close interest by the audience. The cast, directed by Gladys Simpson Shaffer, was the original one, Marion Bruner, Leslie Steffenson, Mabel Pruitt and Glenn Shaw.

U. S. Players Please
The first of the evening's competitive plays was "The Revealing Moment" (Oscar W. Pirkin's) entry of Touchstone Drama Workshop of U. S. C. The play, the life of Anton Chekhov, dealing with the production of his play, "The Cherry Orchard," is a powerful and moving little drama that was so beautifully interpreted by the young people of its cast that applause continued for many minutes.

William Evans took the part of "Anton Chekhov," with Yvonne Gregg as "Olga," his wife (the star of "The Cherry Orchard"). Charles Newman as "Konstantin Stanislavsky," of the theater; Robert J. Norton as "The Doctor," and Fred Ross as "Ivan," the servant. Timing was extremely good in this production, and it was interesting to the audience to know that Margaret Reynolds, the director, is herself a student at U. S. C., as are members of the excellent cast.

Players Guild of Long Beach went back to Biblical times for "The Flowering Staff," a tenderly intimate portrayal of an episode in their girlhood days of "Mary," played by Barbara Parmley to the "Joseph" of Clifford Reynolds. A pleasing touch to this play, was the introduction of an occasional random bar of song by Anne Tischer in her role of "Anna," the mother of Mary. As her voice was so lovely, and the song hits were done so spontaneously and naturally that they were unusually appealing.

Work was consistently good on the part of the cast which included also Hugh Beaumont as "Titus," Edward Mitchell as his servant; Floyd Pedersen as "Eleazar," Irwin Hall as "Joseph," little Helen Kinnell as "Ruth," and Marjorie Cate as "Tirzah," her mother.

Note of Gayety
The program ended on a note of gayety introduced by a whole bevy of feminine members of Laguna Beach Community Players in their hilarious interpretation of "Double Demon" by A. P. Herbert.

Bruce Charter directed this cleverly presented play. The mother of the forewoman of a jury with one lone man, played by Charles Radford. The various methods brought to bear in persuading him to agree with the verdict of the women, and the clever pantomime of the different women, none of whom stepped out of character for a minute, kept the audience in a gale of mirth.

Jury members promoting the fun with the forewoman and the single subdued man, were Annie Gayne Peake, Barbara Frost, Katherine Grassie, Lytle Rankin, Diane Meredith, Helen Kirkbride, Helen Monahan, Adelaide Tessier, Claire McCullough and Julie Bingham, with Earl Ostrom as court attendant.

Tonight Manhattan Community Players in "Storm," San Diego Barn Players in "Unnamed," and Pasadena Theater Guild in "The Managers" will complete the competitive events, and the judges, Havrah Hubbard, Agnes Emelle Peterson and Esther Culp Litchfield, will announce their decision. They will base their judging upon characterization and interpretation, 20; tempo, 20; voice and diction, 20; direction, 20, and makeup and costume, 10.

Elwood Reed, who presented his Senior Violin ensemble last night in numbers of marked beauty, tonight will have charge of the musical features again, but will present the Santa Ana String Symphonette, of which he is director. Last night's fine ensemble was composed of Elinor Miller, Faye Spicer, Helen Lutz, Marjorie Dudley, Mary Everett, Peggy Edwards, Alice Titensour, Leo Robbins, Robert Townsend, Simon Pias, and Otto Schroeder, Mary Bruner, accompanist.

Personnel of the Symphonette is composed of Faye Spicer, Mary Everett, Elinor Miller, Helen Lutz, Simon Pias, Robert Townsend, Otto Schroeder, George Lusk, violins; Marjorie Dudley, Rose Marie Flint, Peggy Edwards, Leo Robbins, violas; Edward Burns, Evelyn Scheiber, Anna May Archer, Esteban Rodriguez, cellos.

H. B. OIL WORKER SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES RECEIVED IN BLAST

Victim of serious burns resulting when a refinery still exploded about 8 o'clock Wednesday night, scattering boiling oil over him, Marcus Curnutt, 30, well-known oil worker of Huntington Beach, died at St. Joseph hospital about 9:30 a. m. today.

Curnutt was working at the Social refinery plant of the Holly Development company, Main and Garfield streets, Huntington Beach, when the explosion occurred. As Curnutt rolled in the dirt, extinguishing his blazing clothing, Ray Brenton, oil worker employed on the Coogan wells near the Social refinery plant, came to Curnutt's aid and took him to the offices of Dr. B. W. Hardy for first aid treatment. The fire department extinguished the fire which followed the explosion.

The body of Curnutt, who was a brother of Bill Curnutt, Richfield Oil company employee, was removed to Dixon's Funeral chapel, Huntington Beach, where Coroner Earl Abbey will conduct an inquest probably Monday or Tuesday.

W. M. BURKE MAY BECOME CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESSMAN
W. Maxwell Burke, Santa Ana attorney and brother of J. F. Burke, former publisher of The Register, may be a candidate for congress on the Democratic ticket, according to Barbara M. Brooks of Corona Del Mar.

Pioneering in the business life of Santa Ana Wiesseman's, household furnishing store at Fifth and Main streets, this month, is celebrating its twenty-eighth anniversary.

Established here in May 1908 by the late Frank W. Wiesseman the store has pioneered in business progress since its opening and held an important place in the business life of the community for 28 years. In 1908 the late Mr. Wiesseman opened his store at 114 West Fourth street, carrying a small stock of china, kitchen furnishings and notions. Through the years the stock was increased until, today, it carries a full line of fine china, glass and silverware and house furnishings.

In May 1929 the founder of the store died and, since that time, the business has been carried on by his widow, Mrs. F. W. Wiesseman. Until recently she was assisted in management of the store by her son Carl Wiesseman, who now is in Whittier operating a store similar to the one here.

Mrs. Wiesseman said yesterday that it was due to the foresight and planning of her son, Carl, that the store was moved from its original location to the present address on North Main street. He planned the new store and saw the possibilities of the new location. Mrs. Wiesseman said that business, since the move, has demonstrated the advisability of the move.

Pioneering in business ventures in this city the Wiesseman store was the first to carry a complete line of toys and, like other innovations of the establishment, has proven a success.

Marking the anniversary Mrs. Wiesseman has planned a sale that will pass on to the buying public values that cannot be equalled in any store, according to Mrs. Wiesseman.

POPPIES TO BE HELD SOLD HERE ON NEGLIGENT IN 23RD OF MAY ROCHA'S DEATH

With more than five million poppies already made by disabled veterans, preparatory to the American Legion Auxiliary annual Poppy Sale, 4500 of the hand made flowers are ready for the Santa Ana Auxiliary. The sale will be held here May 23.

According to Mrs. R. H. McCalla, chairman of the Santa Ana Legion Auxiliary poppy drive committee, the paper flowers are being made by disabled men in 60 hospitals in 40 states. The ones to be sold here were made in the Sawtelle Veterans' hospital.

Mrs. McCalla said that no veteran receiving more than $6 per month compensation is permitted to make the poppies. Approximately 75 per cent of the men receive no compensation from the government. So great is the demand for the work of making poppies that no veteran is permitted to make more than 500 of the flowers.

The following Editorial taken from the Orange Daily News of April 15 points out that leaders of the NON-INSTRUCTED DELEGATES originally sought the support of Hearst, which now they protest so vehemently.

The Editorial follows:
Humor In Politics

INTERVIEW OF PRESIDENT SHATTUCK WITH MR. WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST, HELD FEBRUARY 20TH AT SAN SIMEON.

There is an element of unconscious humor in the protests of the managers of the Warren delegation in the presidential primary that Hearst support of the Landon delegation is a betrayal of the Republican voters. Such protests are funny because less than two months ago the officers of the Republican Assembly managing the Warren ticket, were earnestly soliciting the support of Mr. Hearst for the Warren delegation. Having failed to secure it, they have discovered that Hearst support for any delegate ticket is undesirable.

The statement that the Warren managers sought Hearst support is not a rumor. It is set forth specifically and in detail in a report issued recently over the signature of Arthur Dunne, chairman of the candidates committee of the Republican Assembly. That statement is as follows, quoted verbatim from the Dunne report of March 31st:

"Present: Mr. Young, Publisher of the Los Angeles Examiner, Dr. Barham, Publisher of the Los Angeles Herald-Express, Mr. Barr, Editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Express, and Mr. Lindner, General Manager of the San Francisco Examiner."

"The Assembly's position was made clear and stated to be that we were interested in an uninstructed delegation, uninstructed in fact; that we favored inviting in all elements opposed to Roosevelt to participate with us; that we had insisted on an invitation to Merriam which Mr. Merriam had thus far left unanswered; since answered see appendix) that we were ready and anxious to go into the committee to insist that representatives of both Landon and Hearst be placed upon the committee; that we would stay with the committee only so long as we were certain that it sought a truly uninstructed delegation, and so long as it was distinctly understood that the delegation would not be bound by the unit rule.

"Mr. Hearst's position was stated to be that, while he is not a Republican, his primary interest is to elect a Republican president in 1936; that he will support the Reubican nominee this year, but may not line up Republican next time; that he feels that the problem is to defeat Roosevelt; that is his opinion that Landon is the best timber to defeat Roosevelt; that at the time he came out for Landon, they had not met, and that he has met Landon only once since; that he would not expect to choose the delegation to the Republican National Convention—did not wish the responsibility for the party machinery; that if a Landon delegation was fairly and openly picked and a true Landon delegation, he would be entirely satisfied, even though he took no part in its selection; that if an uninstructed delegation is put in the field, he will reserve decision on his attitude until the delegation is selected; that he will be glad to check with the Assembly when we were in a position to see what the uninstructed committee will bring out; that he would not want to be represented on the Warren committee—and did not think it proper as he is not a Republican and would prefer to remain free from its deliberations."

Mr. Shattuck submitted the above report to George Young of the Los Angeles Examiner and Arthur Dunne submitted duplicate copy to Clarence Lindner of the San Francisco Examiner, to check the accuracy of Mr. Hearst's position. Both agreed the report was accurate.

The contention, therefore, that the Hearst support of the Landon ticket is improper becomes a childish complaint in the face of the record. The gentlemen who are running the Warren ticket should gauge a little more accurately the danger of becoming ridiculous.

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A somewhat new "White House gang" is quietly growing up around President Roosevelt. The passing of Louis Howe made additional room for some. The need of campaign help drew in others.

Among those who have been "using" Mr. Howe's old desk and offices off and on so far are:

Charles Michelson, the Democratic national committee publicity genius, who is around the White House most of the time now.

Stanley High, the religious broadcaster from NBC. Mr. High is the new radio ghost man.

Hampton Robb, a "young Democrat" promoter, friend of Jimmy Roosevelt, who was brought around by the President's son. Mr. Robb is a new idea man.

Steve Early, the presidential sub-secretary, who outranks the other three, unofficially at any rate in the same line of work, namely publicity, stage managing, speech-writing, ghost writing, etc.

QUINTET

Then there is Roy O. West, who does not use Howe's office, but who does much of his old work with congress. Mr. West prefers his desk in the interior department, where he is listed as assistant secretary, or the corridors of the capitol, where he is received as the liaison agent of the White House.

None of the quintet is actually on the White House payroll, except Mr. Early. Mr. West draws his check from the interior department, Mr. Michelson and Mr. High from the Democratic National committee, a non-governmental organization, and Mr. Robb from the National Emergency council.

Each functions individually and the group is in no sense a board of trustees. The arrangement has been made man-by-man since Howe's incapacity more than a year ago.

Despite talk about appointing a new official secretary, the arrangement is likely to continue.

WORD

The House leaders refused to go to see the President about allocating $700,000,000 of the new relief funds for PWA. They told the likes of congressmen that the president had already informed them he was against any earmarking of the relief fund. In return, some of the likes of congressmen told the leaders they would not stand for PWA earmarking if the President was against it.

No better inside incident could be found to illustrate the extent to which Mr. Roosevelt's word has become law with congress—until the election is over, at least.

INDEPENDENCE

The gossip has been that the new Tydings Puerto Rican independence bill was approved officially by Mr. Roosevelt's cabinet and planted with Senator Tydings for introduction in the Senate. That appears to be true, but the inside appears leading up to the unexpected administration decision have never been told. Briefly, they appear to be these:

First, Mr. Roosevelt went down there and became interested in protecting island welfare. Then, Mrs. Roosevelt went down and boosted the island some more. A separate administration was created for it in the interior department. Large amounts of relief money were sent there from time to time.

After all this, the Nationalists continued crying independence and an American police chief was murdered. Yet the shrewdest of Puerto Rican observers say the Nationalists represent little more than 5 per cent of the people.

From this set of facts, you might conclude that the Tydings legislation is only a threat bill, but there is another factor. If American sugar and tobacco people get behind it in the same way they got behind the Philippine independence racket, they may take the issue out of Mr. Roosevelt's hands and put it over.

Note—This was a good time to make the move for beneficial effect upon the coming Pan-American conference. That appears to have been a major motive.

PREDICTION
Don't be surprised if Harry Hopkins shakes up his relief personnel from top to bottom within the next few weeks. And the man who will be responsible for the overhauling is quiet Senator Frederick Van Nuys of Indiana.

The senator recently returned to his home state to check reports that ex-Republican Wayne Coy—mentioned in Whirligig some months ago—was using his influence as WPA regional director to feather several political nests—his own and Gov. Paul McNutt's. The senator obtained evidence which convinced him that WPA was a haven for budding and broken-down politicians. He relayed his proof to Mr. Hopkins and Mr. Roosevelt and they didn't brush it aside as they have Rush Holt's charges of derelictions in West Virginia.

Coming from Senator Van Nuys, these charges are serious. He is a New Dealer, an anti-limelight and a man of restraint. He predicts privately that WPA, unless reorganized and reformed, will turn out to be a liability instead of an asset in November.

ATTACKS

The undercover concern over a revival of the religious issue in the 1936 campaign is more serious than most people realize. Strange enough, it is the religious or semi-religious organizations which threaten to make next fall's election a counterpart of the 1928 Hoover-Smith squabble.

Several seemingly isolated maneuvers foreshadow a politico-religious controversy. Some time ago Catholic, Protestant and Jewish leaders formed a national organization to combat the rising tide of bigotry. Then Stanley High, former dry apostle, heads a Good Neighbor league which is obviously designed to assist Mr. Roosevelt and to stave off ministerial enmity as revealed in various polls of the clergy.

On the same day that Mr. High announced the formation of his association Washington learned of a pseudo-Klan movement to defeat the property of the city.

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—One of the bitter pills Will Hays' office must swallow is the success of the Hays-termed "undrape movie magazines." The classification bunches several film periodicals given over to publication of revealing poses of actresses, accompanied by risqué stories and jokes. Despite the Hays ordinance against release of semi-nude art, editors of these magazines manage to find enough on-the-border poses to publish each new issue. Of late unable to procure "leg art" of stars and near-stars, they have gone to Broadway, where poses of skimpily clad chorus girls may be had for the asking. A general sprinkling of these phibidicious ladies sandwiched in among more modest poses of the film group serves its purpose well. Few readers stop to perceive that the stars themselves do not appear in the Sallyrand.

Efforts of the Hays organization to eliminate these undesirables by withdrawal of studio advertising have had no effect. The magazines sell for more money than ordinary motion picture periodicals, and they net a profit on circulation alone. Whatever advertising they get is so much added manna. The publishers are smart enough to know that if they accede to Hays's demand to cease printing feminine loveliness in undrape, even though that means a few more pages of advertising, it would spell death to circulation. Their readers want what they get—leg pictures.

DEVELOPING OF S. A. GARDENS IS BEING PLANNED

Paving the way for subdivision and development of the 800-acre Santa Ana Gardens tract, which was recently sold under foreclosure from the courthouse steps, to a committee of bondholders, articles of incorporation were filed yesterday with County Clerk J. M. Backs by the Santa Ana Gardens Liquidating company.

The smallest dog was owned by Jud Reed, with Myrtle Harlin in second place. Darryl Wilson had the dog with the longest tail, with Austin Campbell second, and Chauncey Huseroff's dog had the shortest tail, with Ruth Mansour's dog second. The most comical dog belonged to Mary Jean Hendrickson. Bill Hixon and Jerry Mayes tied for second place. The largest ears were on James Flippin's dog and the smallest on Shirley Nave's dog, with Tommy Lancaster and Beverly Jeffers winning the two second places. Judges for the contest were William Wade, Stan Wilson and Melvin Clement.

Mrs. Kenneth King, Frank Collins and Kellar Watson, Jr., as judges in the bicycle parade, awarded prizes for the best decorated bicycles to Jack Wilbur, Jeanne Hampton and James Campbell in the intermediate school division and to Harold Foster, Arthur Shepherd Jr. and James Beadle in the lower grades.

NEW YORK PROTECTS FIGHT FANS IN PURCHASE OF SEATS

Hoc-soc is a new indoor recreation that has been received in St. Louis with the same enthusiasm as a monkey show for ecoum.

A combination of hockey and soccer, the sport is called by its sponsors "the fastest game off wheels."

Five players compose a team, they are the goalie, fullback, center, right wing, and left wing. A rectangular floor measuring 50 by 100 feet, with walls at least five feet high on the four sides, is used.

Originated here in 1921, hoc-soc was not placed on an organized basis until 1934. The game grew rapidly that today is recognized as the principal sport at most St. Louis clubs and neighborhood associations.

Walter Giesler, athletic director, who played in the inaugural game at the Sherman Center here, describes the origin of hoc-soc.

"While playing an outdoor soccer game five years ago, rain forced the contest to be called off, and the boys to shelter," says Giesler.

HOW IT STARTED

Charley McBride, then athletic director of Sherman Center, allowed the group to congregate in a small room in the basement. Some of our number conceived the idea of playing an indoor soccer or hockey game. A table was set up at each end of the room and goals were scored by kicking the ball under the table. What a rough-and-tumble scramble that was!

"Bruises were plentiful, but despite this, the game continued as a rainy day sport with each group making its own rules as it went along."

Finally, when McBride became boys' director at the Neighborhood House and Giesler was placed in charge of athletics, the pair got their heads together, drew up a set of rules, built goal posts and nets.

Saints Score Four In Ninth But San Diego Wins As Usual, 14-11

LAST PREPARATORY LEAGUE (Final Standings)

Long Beach	6	2	.857
San Diego	4	4	.500
Santa Ana	3	5	.375
Alhambra	0	6	.000

Santa Ana today licked the rounds of its fourteen successive whippings by a San Diego high school baseball team.

The Saints "shot the works" in a desperate effort to terminate their Coast League season in victory before the home folk at Poly field yesterday, but the usual thing happened.

The Coast League championship went to Long Beach, which defeated Alhambra, 10 to 3. The Jackrabbits defeated San Diego twice this year.

San Diego battered Jim Wilkins out of the box in four innings, reaching him for three home runs, and went on to win again, 14 to 11.

Santa Ana had Coach Mike Morrow of the Hillers squirming on the bench in the ninth inning, scoring four times in a diaphanous rally, but was too far behind to do more than make the score look better.

Wilkins walked Dill, the first man to face him and Cesena, the next, was safe on an error. Kerr drove both in with a single and eventually came around himself on an error and an outfield fly.

The Hillers got another run in the second and two more in the third when Zimmerman and V. Ortiz blasted home runs.

Santa Ana rang the bell in the third. Ortega walked and came around on a single and a wild throw to first by Skelly for a double play.

When Ortiz, San Diego's sophomore pitcher, checked another home run in the fourth—a long drive over the center field fence—Coach Clyde Cook waived Wilkins to the showers and turned the hopeless assignment over to Lewis Olivas. He got by until the seventh when the Hillers batted.

ROSS DEFEATS WOODS

The school of wrestlers London would like to force out of the business are the chair-smashing, eye-poking palookas, whose crowd appeal depends upon such stunts as eating spectators' straw hats and slugging referees.

Londes' plans were revealed following the suspension this week of Dick Shikat, recognized world heavyweight champion by the Michigan athletic commission. In barring Shikat from the state, the Michigan board joined California and Tennessee, where the new N. W. A. champion also has been barred because he failed to show up for contracted exhibitions.

Shikat, who recently wrestled the heavyweight crown from O'Mahoney, is the No. 1 non-import in the Detroit promoter's list of small-fry wrestlers.

"Any wrestler who jumps dates and is always complaining about the so-called wrestling trust is a disgrace to the sport," Nick insisted.

Londes' present plans call for a tournament, with matches to be held weekly (if necessary) among wrestlers who think they can last ten minutes in a gym workout with some of the present-day chieftains of the industry.

"In other words," Londes explained, "every wrestler in the country will have a shot. The gymnasium eliminations

BOSTON, May 2. — (UP) — Bruce Campbell, right fielder of the Cleveland Indians, remained in serious condition with cerebro spinal meningitis today but city health authorities advised the Indians and the Boston Red Sox to continue their schedules, including their game at Fenway park this afternoon.

Boston health commissioner, William B. Keeler, after examining all Cleveland players, said it would not be necessary for either team to curtail its schedule provided "same precautions" were taken.

BOSTON, May 2. — (UP) — Bruce Campbell, star right fielder, remained in serious condition from what was diagnosed as cerebro spinal meningitis today, while medicals, awaited results of blood tests to determine whether any other member of the Cleveland Indians had been afflicted similarly.

Not until Monday will the results be known.

Stricken aboard the train which brought the Indians here from New York Thursday night, Campbell was taken yesterday to St. Elizabeth's hospital.

His name was put on the danger list but Dr. William O'Halloran, hospital staff specialist, said the patient's condition was "hopeful."

Campbell was given a serum injection.

Coates Whiffs 17 As Unbeaten Stars Wax Clayman Cards, 7-2

Just a week away from the National league's opener with Huntington Beach, Jimmy Coates turned on the heat for the first time last night as Santa Ana's undefeated Stars hammered out a 7-2 victory over Clayman's Cardinals, one of the best of Los Angeles softball clubs.

Coates mowed down 17 on strikes, an average of virtually two to an inning. He put out only six hits that he distributed into as many innings. And just to keep up practice, lashed three line singles into the outfield.

The Cardinals brought to the Municipal Bowl a lineup jammed with oldtime professional leaguers, including "Irish" Meusel who appeared in two world series with the New York Giants. They played good ball too, but the Santa Anans made their 12 hits mean something, five of them being extra-base knocks. Ten of the 12 were solid drives into the outfield, another factor that encouraged Manager George Lackaye. Statistician John Woolomes figures that the Stars have gathered 64 hits in their past six games and 40 of 'em have been he-man blows.

The Cardinals scored first, Tanziola's base on balls, Meusel's double that bounced over Young at third, and Sawyer's fielder's choice to Coates accounted for a run in the second inning. The Los Angeles team got its other run in the sixth, Pfahler walked and came 'round the horn on Tanziola's hit to right and a double steal with Tanziola.

"Doc" Smith's home run to deep center in the fourth gave the Stars their impetus. Korall's walk, Coates' single and Burbank's error produced another before the inning ended. The Stars got two hits in the sixth on Korall's walk, Coates' single, Burbank's error and Conrad's single. Rebohn's double, Smith's out and a wild throw home by Sawyer accounted for another in the seventh. Coates' single, Denney's triple and a wild pitch by Pusich finished the run-making in the eighth.

LE MON WINS, LAUNCHES PRO CAREER SOON

"Give me six more amateur matches," said Heavyweight Lupe LeMon today, "and I'll be ready for the professionals, come what may."

The stocky Fullerton fighter, encouraged by his second straight victory over Hugh (Thin Man) Glass at the Orange County Athletic club last night, intimated he would abandon the simon-pure division early this summer.

Foregoing finesse, LeMon and Glass put on another bruising brawl before LeMon emerged with a bloody, cauliflower-ear, but a decisive victory over Jim Jeffries' "coming champion." The decision was rendered by Referee Harry Lykka.

As was the case last week, the feud was settled to the satisfaction of LeMon, press row and the large percentage of a well populated gallery. But Glass and the anti-LeMon group squawked as usual.

LeMon Wins Every Round

Press row observers gave LeMon every round, only the first being fairly even. Repeating the performance of last week, the brawny LeMon and tall Glass wrestled each other out of the ring in the third to the high gloe of bleacher bugs. Both fell with a crash into the front row seats. Neither was badly hurt although LeMon came up with a bloody ear.

They came out slugging in the first frame, LeMon working on Glass' midsection. Lupe smacked Glass around in the second round and the third was another slam-bang affair. The tall Glass was almost shattered in the fourth when LeMon's busy left repeatedly found the high man's face.

In the semi-windup, ebony Ernie Carter of San Bernardino out-boxed clever Raoul Solis of Santa Ana to win Lykka's nod. Solis took the first round, the next was even and the final two were the black boy's by a wide margin.

Solis figured in an undeviated fight on his way from the ring to his dressing room. Maxie Moore, young Orange boxer, said something Solis resembled and in a jiffy the boys were slugging toe to toe in the runway. Police officers,

Indian Broom's Chances Favroed In Film Colony

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—(UP)—Indian Broom, nicknamed "The California Comet" since his record-breaking performances in the west, was a favorite of the motion picture colony to win the Kentucky Derby.

In a poll of 25 members of the motion picture colony, Indian Broom received eight votes to Brevity's five. Gold Seeker and The Fighter tied for the show position in the poll with four votes. He did, winner of the Santa Anita Derby, received two votes while Big Joli and Grand Slam had a single tally each.

Indian Broom was liked by Loreta Young, Roscoe Karns, Gracie Allen, Producer Raymond Griffith, Dolores Costello Barrymore, Blinn Barnes, Producer Hal Roach and John Barrymore.

Backing Brevity were George Raft, Producer Darryl Zanuck, George Burns, Directors Robert Cummings and Ray McCarey.

The Fighter had among his backers such celebrities as Bing Crosby, Eleanor Whitney, and Directors Norman Taurog and Al Hall. Gold Seeker was cheered by Randolph Scott, Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy and Jack Haley.

Sully Hart and Eddie Baker mixed it hot and heavy, Baker getting the decision.

Jimmie Merced won from John Chavez in a slow fight compared with the others on a fine card.

Lemon To Join Flyers In Deal for Webb

Francis Lemon, red-headed Anaheim catcher, who was sought by almost every club in the National Night Ball league when he said he wouldn't play with the Valencias this year, will don a Westminister uniform when the pennant race starts next week.

Lemon has been traded to Westminister Outfielder Dave Webb, longtime Santa Ana City league batting champion who did the same thing in the San Joaquin valley circuit last summer.

A finger injury has Lemon on the bench temporarily but the trouble is not serious.

WESTMINSTER BALL CLUB TO PLAY ON ROAD

Westminister's night baseball club will become a traveling team until the status of its home playing field is decided. Manager Francis (Frank) Penhall announced officially today.

This means that at least two of the Aviators' National league games (Orange May 12 and Santa Ana May 19) would be held on opposition grounds, although scheduled at Westminister.

Penhall said that all National league business managers had formally approved the traveling team plan.

Indications that the ball park issue would require extended argument on points of law caused Superior Judge George K. Scovel yesterday to set aside a day for hearing the injunction petition of E. B. Finley, Westminister, who seeks to oust the club from its grounds, curving the county park at Westminister.

The court designated May 20 as the date for hearing the injunction matter. Meanwhile, a motion by District Attorney W. F. Menton, defending the county supervisors in the action, to dissolve the temporary restraining order against the ball club's use of the park, was denied.

Finley and the faction he represents in the controversy with the Penhall family, which controls the club, filed the injunction petition on the ground that use of the park, with the public fenced out and forced to pay admission, violates

GOOD WEATHER FOR KENTUCKY TURF CLASSIC

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2.—(UP)—The field for today's 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby was reduced to 15 when Mrs. Bossie Franzheim's Silas was scratched.

CHURCHILL DOWNS, May 2.—(UP)—The field for today's 62nd running of the Kentucky Derby was reduced to 15 when the Bomar stable's Forest Play was scratched at 11:45 a. m. (C.S.T.)

Dnieper and Seventh Heaven, a filly, were withdrawn earlier in the morning. Neither had been expected to start. Dnieper, owned by Mrs. P. A. B. Widener, had been scheduled to run coupled with Joseph A. Widener's Brevity, the heavy favorite. Seventh Heaven, a 10000 plater owned by W. C. Goodloe, was a last-minute, unknown entry yesterday.

Clear weather and a fast track—a break for the favorite, Brevity—was the outlook at scratch time. The sun began shining and the track, which had been sloppy from several days' rain, rapidly was rounding into shape.

The vanguard of the expected record-breaking crowd of 75,000 began arriving at the rambling old course early. Twenty-five persons lined up outside the general admission ticket window at dawn.

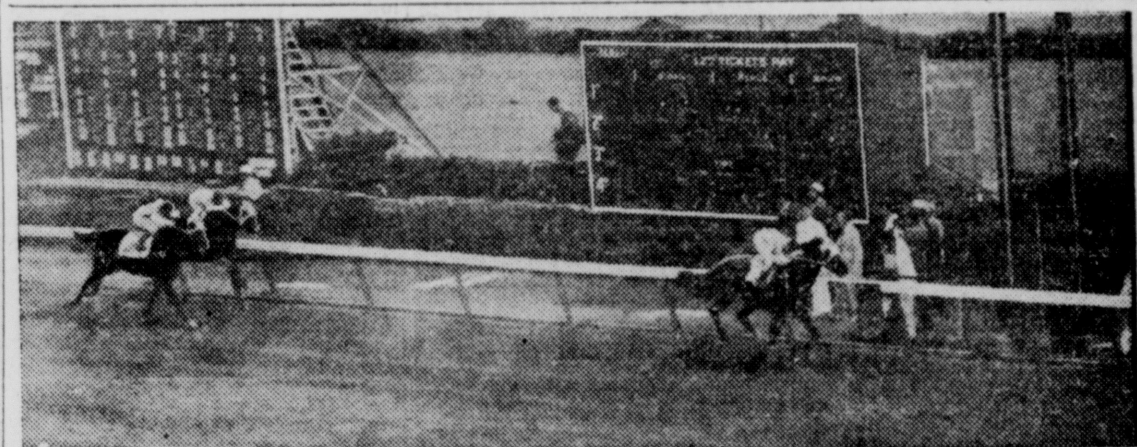

Col. Matt Winn, ringmaster of the bluegrass classic, was enthusiastic over the weather. A heavy rain storm hit West Louisville early this morning and continued for 25 minutes. But in Louisville, where the Downs nestle snugly, only a few drops fell.

At 7:30 a. m., E.D.T., the track was moderately fast and the sun shone through threatening clouds. Two hours later the weather was clear and the track fast.

Post-time for the classic was announced at 4:40 p. m., C.S.T. Getting away from the hysteria of the mob which is here to have a good time and spend something like $10,000,000, the race narrows down to six horses.

They are Brevity, Bold Venture, Grand Slam, The Fighter, Granville and Col. E. Bradley's entry of Bien Joli and Banister—nobody can split them, not even Col. Bradley himself who's won four Derbies.

Brevity, Joseph Widener's picture horse who has ruled a firm favorite in the winter books and in the early betting here, has lost support in the last 24 hours. He no longer is the horse that can't be beat, but the horse which Can Brevity do this again? That's what thousands of race-minded folk in the United States wanted to know today. The picture was snapped as Brevity, favorite in the Kentucky Derby, was winning the Florida Derby last winter. It was a hollow victory for the Joseph E. Widener horse. But Brevity was to run more and better horseflesh at Churchill Downs. Could he repeat?

Promoter Sam Sampson and other club officials parted them before either had demonstrated a superiority.

Everett ("Frenchy") Jure and Bill Martinez turned what started out to be a shadow-boxing event into a grudge fight. They danced the rhumba in the first. Then Jure got mad when Martinez smacked him after the bell sounded. After that, neither paid much attention to the bell until the referee ordered a hammer for the time-keeper so the boys could hear it. Jure took the decision.

SHIRLEY FILM BEGINS TODAY AT BROADWAY

Hummable new tunes, tantalizing new dances and Shirley Temple in her most lovable enthralling role. These are the entertainment delights of "Captain January," which opens an engagement today at the Broadway theater.

A score of tinkling new tunes, all with music by Lew Pollack, again give the curly-headed star an opportunity to exhibit her kinglike talent. For her dancing partner in a series of intricate new steps, Shirley now has Buddy Ebsen, tap star of Ziegfeld Follies and sensation of "Broadway Melody of 1936."

The underlying dramatic story of "Captain January" deals with the adventures and near-tragedies of Shirley and her two grizzled sea-salt friends, Guy Kibbee and Slim Summerville.

Kibbee, who had rescued Shirley from the sea when she was an infant, is jealously fond of the little girl, forever afraid that somebody will turn up with a better claim to her.

When Sara Haden, the mean old truant officer, threatens to take Shirley from him, Kibbee stops his quibbling with Slim, and they join forces to temporarily outwit Miss Haden.

The climax of the picture is devoted to a thrilling sea-chase, in which Shirley and Kibbee flee from Miss Haden in a sailing ketch. Although they are caught, their friends contrive to bring a happy ending to the picture. A romance between Jane Darwell and Kibbee is one of the comedy elements of the story, while in the supporting cast appears June Lang, sharing youthful romance honors with Buddy Ebsen.

A special selection of short subjects has been booked by Manager Lester J. Fountain to show with this new and colorful Shirley Temple picture. The short subjects include a travelogue in color, "Japan in Cherry Time," a new Our Gang comedy, "Divox Givers," a cartoon, "That'll Be Me," and World News events.

WESTERN PICTURE ENDS RUN TONIGHT

"Between Men," the thrilling action story now running at Walker's State theater, shows for the last times tonight.

Johnny Mack Brown is the star in this western picture, and is supported by a cast headed by William Farnum in the role of his father, both being unaware of that fact, until during a terrific fight between the two the father recognizes his son by a scar.

The program includes a Harry Langdon comedy, "I Don't Remember," a news reel, a chapter of "The Miracle Rider," with Tom Mix, and a cartoon.

Poetry is life for Anton Romatka—he not only writes it, he teaches, reads it over the radio, illuminates it in beautiful medieval script and has written an Encyclopedia of Versification which is an authority in its field.

Swamp Nocturne
Warm peace enfolds the dreamy swamp lagoon;
Moon lyric spells enthrall the summer night
With hoary beams of strangely blended light,
Where Mystery's most heavy charm is strewn.

Elusive woodland ghosts now softly croon.
And seem to mock or cheer the graceful sprite,
Who parts the waves that gleam as hard and white
As burnished silver stolen from the moon.

The waking wind pursues his walling course
Where trailing shrouds of Spanish moss are spread,
And all the night grows tremulous and chill,
Dark boding fears stalk down Death's corridors:
A splash, a piercing scream of mortal dread,
A gurgling sigh, and then the night is still.

Love's Music
When first we played Love's melody
We had no thought of sin;
You simply wore the bow to me
And I your violin.

Stormy Sunset
This sunset
Is like a huge
Noisy parrot
Perched on the bar
Of the horizon.
His chatter
Of clattering thunder,
The roar of beating wings
Over tropical waters,
And his vain glorious gesture
Of preening his bristling plumage,
Is a comedy
Rehearsed a million times
For the benefit of those
Who think they are poets.

SHIRLEY AT BROADWAY

A great story makes Shirley Temple's greatest screen role as the dimpled darling of the screen returns to play a sea-waif in "Captain January," opening today at the Broadway theater. The new picture, which features Guy Kibbee and Slim Summerville, has new tunes, fascinating dances, heart-tugs and comedy.

SCORES DRAMATIC TRIUMPH

Sylvia Sydney, below, plays the role of an innocent girl, victim of circumstantial evidence, hunted by the law, in "Mary Burns, Fugitive," which opens a three-day engagement at Walker's State theater Sunday. The talented actress scores a dramatic triumph in this production, according to advance notices.

CHARLIE CHAN FILM COMEDY HERE THURSDAY

The latest Charlie Chan thriller, "Charlie Chan at the Circus," and the rollicking Booth Tarkington comedy, "Gentle Julia," will open an engagement at the Broadway theater starting next Thursday, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain.

Criminal master minds plot his death, deadly cobras strike out with poisonous fangs, and foaming gorillas rage at his back, but Warner Oland as the famous Chinese detective calmly and silently unravels one of the most baffling mysteries of his career in "Charlie Chan at the Circus."

With the circus as the scene of the crime, Chan finds himself involved with a mass of clues. The dead circus owner, not having been on friendly terms with the performers, leaves all of the troupe open to suspicion, including even the savage gorilla who was missing from his cage at the time of the crime. When a cobra finds its way to Chan's room and almost puts an end to the wily detective's career, he becomes convinced the murderer is one of the troupe. The murderer returns to the scene of the crime and Chan cleverly baits him into revealing his identity.

"Gentle Julia" is the story of young folks in love and young fry in trouble, in the touching, happy, uproariously funny style that only Tarkington possesses. The new comedy feature teams Jane Withers with Jackie Searle, former Fulton lad. Jane and Jackie are cousins in the film, perpetually engaged in a feud, with Jane getting slightly the better of it. Her only other diversion is interfering in the erratic romances of her pretty aunt, Marsha Hunt. When George Meeker, "smoothie" from the city, monopolizes all Miss Hunt's time, Jane takes a hand and she and Tom Brown plot a bunch of crazy stratagems that sometimes succeed but more often get them trouble.

Starting Sunday, May 10, the Broadway theater will screen two fine films, "Robin Hood of El Dorado" with Warner Baxter and Ann Loring, and "Pride of the Marines" with Charles Bickford and Florence Rice.

BETTE DAVIS, COBB COMEDY, HERE SUNDAY

Two outstanding pictures are billed on the double feature program scheduled to open tomorrow at the West Coast theater, it was announced today by Manager Lester J. Fountain. One is "Golden Arrow," a fast-moving drama with Bette Davis and George Brent. The other is "Everybody's Old Man," with Irvin S. Cobb.

In "The Golden Arrow" Miss Davis appears in a role quite different from those won her the award of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences as the best film actress of 1935. In her new film she gives a light comedy portrayal with a romantic twist, which involves some dramatic moments. Brent's role is also largely comedy, he being a shy young reporter whose chief interest is a book he is writing but who finds time to fall in love with the blonde Bette after a series of misunderstandings.

Other hilarious complications are caused by the attempt of a newly rich oil heiress to break up the love affair and steal her rival's lover after her retinue of foreign princes, nobles and other fortune seekers have deserted her for the lovely blonde, who also is presumed to be fabulously wealthy.

The picture moves to a swift climax in which the blonde beauty proves not to be wealthy at all, but a simple American girl whose whole yearning is for a real romance and the love of the one man in the world to her. The picture is set in the background of luxurious yachts and hotels. It is from the play by the famous English dramatist, Michael Arlen.

"Everybody's Old Man" is a breezy, delightful comedy-romance of canny age pitted against modern youth. It introduces Irvin S. Cobb in his first starring role and gives full scope to the radiant humor, the genial, kindly wit that has long made him America's favorite story-teller. The cast includes Rochelle Hudson, Johnny Downs and Norman Foster. The plot deals with the curious adventures of a king of industry when he retires to straighten out a group of wild youngsters.

Short subjects include a cartoon and World News.

DOUBLE BILL AT WEST COAST ENDS

Theatergoers in Santa Ana and vicinity will have the last opportunity tonight to see the attractive double feature program at the West Coast theater, featuring "Special Investigator," dealing with a one-man crusade against hoodlumism in a Nevada mining camp, and "Times Square Playboy," hilarious new comedy.

Richard Dix, supported by an excellent cast which includes Margaret Callahan as his leading lady, has the part of a gang lawyer who turns avenger in "Special Investigator." After a gang of law breakers wipes out his brother who is a government employee, the former mouthpiece for the gangsters repudiates his past and swears to avenge his brother's death, finding romance during the dramatic avengement.

Warren William has the leading role in "Times Square Playboy" as a small town boy, after making a million in the big city, becomes engaged to a night club entertainer. The picture is a happy-go-lucky comedy, featured by smart dialogue and many songs. It is based on the Broadway success by George M. Cohen. The cast includes Jane Travis, Barton MacLane, Gene and Kathleen Lockhart, Dick Puccini, Granville Bates and Dorothy Vaughan.

Short subjects include a cartoon and World News.

The picture is emotionally powerful, tensely dramatic and packed with romance and adventure, according to Manager Vic Walker.

The cast includes Alan Baxter as the gangster, Wallace Ford as a G-man, and Melvyn Douglas as a wealthy man, temporarily blinded, who falls in love with Miss Sydney while she is working in a hospital where he is a patient.

SANTA ANA, CALIFORNIA, SATURDAY, MAY 2, 1936

Y. W. Convention Delegate
Sends Story Of Conclave

Arousing interest in every city and village of the United States and its territories, the national Young Women's Christian association biennial now in progress in Colorado Springs, is being attended by several from this community. Santa Ana is fortunate in having sent as a representative from Wrycende Maedgen club of young business women of the Y. W., a trained newspaper writer in the person of Mrs. William Fritch, assistant society editor of The Register. She has sent the following account of the opening of the conclave and the general atmosphere.

BY VIRGINIA FRITCHER

It is "Springtime in the Rockies" away over here in Colorado Springs, where several hundred delegates to the fourteenth national convention of the Y.M.C.A. are so busy with affairs of the day that they haven't yet found time to investigate the beauties of the surroundings. Manitou, Pike's Peak and the Garden of the Gods are calling in vain.

Meanwhile the rush goes on, and there is a continual surge of people following program schedules on the theme of "Youth, the World's Future." Both young and old, from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Pacific coast across to the Hawaiian Islands, are brought together by the common bond of the Young Women's Christian association. Great Britain and Japan have secretaries holding places of honor on the platform while the great conclave gets under way.

Since the Y.M.C.A. holds its national convention biennially, business includes presentation of reports of activities of the past two years, as well as outlining of a program for the next two years. In addition to general sessions, there are individual assemblies for business and professional women's clubs, for industrial girls, for students, Y.W. secretaries, Girl Reserve advisers.

County Represented

When regional meetings were held the afternoon of the opening day, Wednesday, April 29, California had the greatest representation of any of the western states. Taking their bows with the poppy wearers were Miss Mary W. Howard, general secretary of Santa Ana Y.M.C.A.; Miss Mabel McFadden, president of Santa Ana Y.W.; Mrs. Charles Robinson, Orange, Y.W. secretary; Miss Edna Munford, Fullerton Y.W. secretary, and Mrs. William Fritch, delegate from Wrycende Maedgen club of business girls from Santa Ana Y.W.C.A.

California is represented by Dr. W. O. Mendenhall, president of the Y.W.C.A. who conducts daily devotionals.

Mrs. Frederick M. Paist, president of the national board, who gave addresses in Southern California several months ago, has outlined the guiding principals and program emphases adopted by the 1934 convention, to guide the association movement for many years. Emphases will be on religion, leadership, constituent groups and educational processes.

Opening Session

Mrs. Harrie R. Chamberlin, president of the Y.W.C.A. of the United States, is presiding officer. The opening session Wednesday, April 29 was followed that evening by a round table discussion in which a cross section of youth of the country was presented. The student pointed out that youth is a reflection of society; the Girl Reserve, the lack of vocational training offered in schools; the Negro, the race problem; the industrial girl, the problem of economic insecurity; the farm woman, uncertainty of income; the "never yet employed," the disillusionment which comes to the boy or girl who has never had a job; the young married woman, presented the question, "should young couples deliberately have children, knowing the insecurity of the times?" the second generation girl, the question, "should the American born European be true to his inherent old world ideas, or to American ideals?"

And so the convention goes on; facing the problems of youth, and of the country generally. What results in the way of resolutions and platforms will be brought back to Santa Ana when the delegates return to share their convention experience with other association members. The conclave will close Tuesday, May 5.

Hosts Arrange Bridge
Contest to Follow
Formal Dinner

It was a very pleasant hospitality which Mr. and Mrs. Carter Lane extended Thursday night to a group of friends bidden to dine and play bridge in the Lane home, 518 East Myrtle street.

Dinner was served at seven o'clock, and Mrs. Lane applied an attractive rose and blue decorative note to appointments of her dining table from which the courses were served, and to the small tables where groups of four were seated. Small flowers in rose and blue tones were mingled on the main table, with Cecile Bruner buds for the smaller tables. Candles were all in ivory tones, and the effect was most attractive.

Among the flowers used so decoratively were quantities of Cecile Bruner roses and clusters of mixed blossoms sent by Mrs. George Wells and Mrs. W. W. Woods. They made a colorful background for the bridge tables during the evening's contract play. Scores of husbands and wives were added after the final round, and prizes were awarded Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Diehl, Mr. and Mrs. Woods and Mr. and Mrs. Wells. Guests assembled by Mr. and Mrs. Lane for this enjoyable affair were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Crowell, Mr. and Mrs. Theo. A. Winbiller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Raddant, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Diehl and Mr. and Mrs. George Wells.

Most of the afternoon was devoted to plans for attending Grand chapter and in becoming better acquainted.

Among the Orange county members present were Mesdames Myrtle Clayton, Brea; Katherine Ledlay, Yorba Linda; Ruth Abplanalp, Buena Park; Ester Gale, Brea; Elizabeth Lewis, Santa Ana; Clara Wilson, Fullerton; Mae Henry, Garden Grove; Mae Galloway, Fullerton; Rae Bunch, Orange; Olive Mason, Laguna Beach; Lucille Decker, Artesia; Minnie Tanquary, Buena Park; and Betty Gowdy, Santa Ana.

Mrs. Roper Is
Party Hostess
To Small Group

Something in the nature of a "prelude" to the more formal function at which Mrs. Parko Roper is to entertain at an early date with Mrs. Charles S. Kendall, was the delightfully intimate luncheon and bridge at which Mrs. Roper was hostess yesterday in her home, 809 Oak street.

Flowers used artistically on the tables and about the home, the cordial informality with which guests were received, the inviting luncheon menu, and an enthralling contract session were all factors in the guests' enjoyment of the afternoon.

Three tables were in play after a leisurely luncheon, and when scores were summed up at conclusion of play, those registering high at individual tables were rewarded with prizes. They were Mrs. Sara Johnston Haddon, Mrs. Clara T. Johnson and Mrs. Horace B. Van Dine.

In addition to the three prize winners, Mrs. Roper's guests were Mrs. George Briggs, Mrs. Byron V. Curry, Mrs. C. V. Davis, Mrs. Will A. Flood, Mrs. D. A. Harwood, Mrs. R. C. Holmes, Mrs. Benjamin J. MacMillen, Mrs. J. B. Roberts and Mrs. Howard Timmons.

Worthy High Priestess

Departing Thursday night for the Supreme White Shrine conclave in Des Moines, Iowa, Mrs. William B. McConnell, worthy high priestess of Damascus White Shrine, bore with her the good wishes of a host of shriners who accompanied her to Los Angeles on the first stage of her eastern trip. They gave a farewell dinner party for her at Lucan's where the party included Mr. McConnell who will remain at the family home, 1218 Orange avenue, during his wife's absence; Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hyde, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Pyle, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Clara Toffaro, Mrs. Walter Wright, Mrs. B. E. Dawson, Mrs. George Shippe, Mrs. Charles Ryan, Mrs. Florence Traile, Mrs. Ella Strassberger, Mrs. Lillian Vinson, Mrs. Sue Henry and Mrs. Neal Biesel.

Earlier Party

Other farewell parties honoring Mrs. McConnell included a dessert bridge Tuesday at Masonic temple. Refreshments were served from small tables centered with delicate colored spring flowers. From the 19 tables of cards the various prize winners were Mrs. Wilfred Taylor, first, Mrs. Katherine Reed, second, and Mrs. Kemp of Long Beach, consolation in contract. Besides others Mrs. Amanda Holmes received first in auction. The prizes were bright pottery. Mrs. E. F. Museum received the door prize, a hand-painted dish.

Early Plans Launched
For County Display
Of Fall Flowers

With every California garden, no matter how small, spilling beauty like water, and making the air odorous with flower perfume, women who are, in the main, responsible for this unusual beauty just now so apparent in Orange county especially, are already turning their thoughts to the autumn flowers, and sharing them with the general public.

That this is true, was evidenced Thursday morning when a group of nearly a score of garden club and section leaders, met upon invitation of Mrs. J. E. Paul, president of Orange County Garden club, to lay their preliminary plans for a county-wide flower show to be staged in the early autumn. It is necessary to have such a plan proposed at this season, in order to give home gardeners time to plan special plantings for fall flowers.

Mrs. Paul called the section and club leaders together in her home on Main street, Tustin, where her own gardens are among the loveliest in the county, and respond fully to the care and attention she lavishes on their planting and design.

All the women fell in with the plan with enthusiasm, and agreed to meet again on May 29 when committees from the various sections of the county, will be appointed. It is planned to make this fall show so centrally located that it will be easy of access from every part of the county. No place has yet been considered, but it is hoped to have it perhaps on 101 Highway, the main travel artery of the county.

By introducing the plan at this early date, home gardeners will be enabled to plant with a view to growing special flowers for display. The range is almost limitless, for dahlias, chrysanthemums, asters, zinnias and all the rich blossoms of the fall season will be available, to say nothing of roses, gladioluses, stocks and the thousand and one flowers that blossom so luxuriantly throughout the spring, summer and autumn months.

Mrs. Paul has emphasized the point that entrants in the big event need not represent club groups affiliated with the county federation, for it will be open to all home gardeners and small garden clubs.

Miss Lorie Buell of the Putnam School of Dancing, gave some appreciated numbers, and Bruce Buell sang equally enjoyable solos as a representative of the Visel Houghton studio. Their mother, Mrs. Buell was accompanist for both.

In bridge play of the evening, Mrs. Ralph Mittel held high score and Mrs. Sam Adams, second high, meriting the prizes awarded by the hostesses. Sister Hostesses Pay
Party Compliment
To Bride-elect

Latest among the bridal attentions paid Miss Rose Rogers by members of Spurgeon M. E. church South, in compliment to her approaching wedding to the Rev. Ray Cook of Phoenix, Ariz., was the pleasant party at which the Misses Esther and Ruth Heemstra were hostesses Thursday night.

Mrs. Flora Heemstra assisted her daughters in welcoming guests to their home, 1106 Spurgeon street, and in furthering plans for the evening's entertainment. Bunko, a treasure hunt and the appropriate contest of a musical romance were among enjoyable activities of the young people. But most interesting of all was the moment when Mrs. C. E. Tumber, advisor of the Young Women's society of Spurgeon Memorial church which formed the guest group, presented that group's joint gift to the bride-elect. This was an electric toaster for the new home she will so soon have in Phoenix.

To conclude their hospitality, the sister hostesses arranged tables with flowers to harmonize with those used profusely about the rooms. There they served strawberry shortcake topped with whipped cream, and coffee to the score or more guests.

Miss Rogers is to be wedded to the Rev. Mr. Cook on Sunday, May 10, in Spurgeon Memorial church. Mr. Cook is pastor of Southern Methodist church in Phoenix, and the young people will make their home in that city so Thursday night's party was almost a farewell event to the popular member of the young people's group of Memorial church.

D. U. V.

In honor of past presidents, Sarah A. Rounds tent, D.U.V., gave a chicken dinner Tuesday at M.W.A. hall. The thirteen past presidents were introduced and Jessie Overton, president, received a lovely corsage.

The patriotic plate drive which members have been working on came to a finish and in carrying out this theme the tables were decorated with blue iris, red roses and white marguerites. Mrs. Olive Willard was chairman, Mrs. Edith Moore and Minnie McGowan were on the kitchen committee, and Mrs. Ella Smith, Mrs. Florence Berry and Mrs. Addie Gardner were on the dinner preparation committee.

Mrs. Nellie Wrigley was a guest from a Roseburg, Ore., tent. The usual meeting on May 12 has been dispensed with since many members will be attending the convention at Santa Barbara.

Church Societies

Calvary Missionary
New officers for the year were installed at the recent meeting of Calvary Missionary society in Beroan hall, where the all-day session had a covered dish luncheon as its social phase.

Mrs. Beattie Sutherland was placed in the presidency, and installed with her were Mesdames J. G. Maret, C. H. Baldwin and Donald Kyle, vice presidents; A. R. Marshall, secretary and Joe Hazen, treasurer.

Forty-five members were present and spent the morning in knotting a comfort for the welfare committee. Mrs. Winifred Smith was luncheon chairman, assisted by Mesdames Edna Brown, Georgia Peterson, Esther Baldwin and Goldie Hammond.

The afternoon program included with installation, a fine talk by Mrs. J. W. Bell on her work and experiences at the African inland mission station which she represents. She read excerpts from letters she has received from the field during her furlough, which gave interesting glimpses of the lives and experiences of the young African converts. She stated that a number of the natives who have been trained in evangelism at the mission stations, are now conducting splendid work among their people.

Birthday Event

A party was given last night in the educational building of First Christian church in honor of those having birthday anniversaries during the first part of the year. The room was decorated with beautiful May baskets and spring flowers. Mrs. L. Crasher greeted guests as they arrived.

Mrs. A. W. Rimel was in charge of the party assisted by Mrs. W. S. Buchanan on the program committee, Mrs. C. E. Price, the refreshment committee, and Mrs. W. P. Hagthorpe, decorations committee.

The oldest member, Mrs. H. Hoff, who is 81 years old, was crowned May queen. Mrs. Herbert Nick sang "Gypsy Love Song," "Spring" and "Violet." Mona Summers Smith gave some of her favorite verses. Games were played and at the close of the evening refreshments were served.

'Phone Company Dance

Telephone numbers and office affairs were completely forgotten for one gala evening by operators of Santa Ana telephone office and their friends when they gathered Thursday night for a successful dance in Veterans' hall.

Miss Marie Parris as general chairman, had assistance of members of the traffic department in working out her plans, and of Fred M. Anderson of the plant department in putting some of them into effect. This applied especially to the scores of bright balloons which were inflated in preparation for one of the evening's most enjoyable specials, the balloon dance.

There were half a dozen spot dances, in which boxes of candy were distributed, and two lively Paul Joneses, called by Mr. Anderson. Special program features were introduced from time to time, and included songs and dances by cunning little four-year-

COME TO CHURCH

The Church is the meeting place for God and His People

A SERMONETTE "COME TO CHURCH CAMPAIGN"

By REV. J. H. HESS, Pastor
Mennonite Brethren in Christ Church

REV. J. H. HESS

"Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." Matt. 16:16
I. e. "Upon this rock I will build my church." Verse 18, C. C.

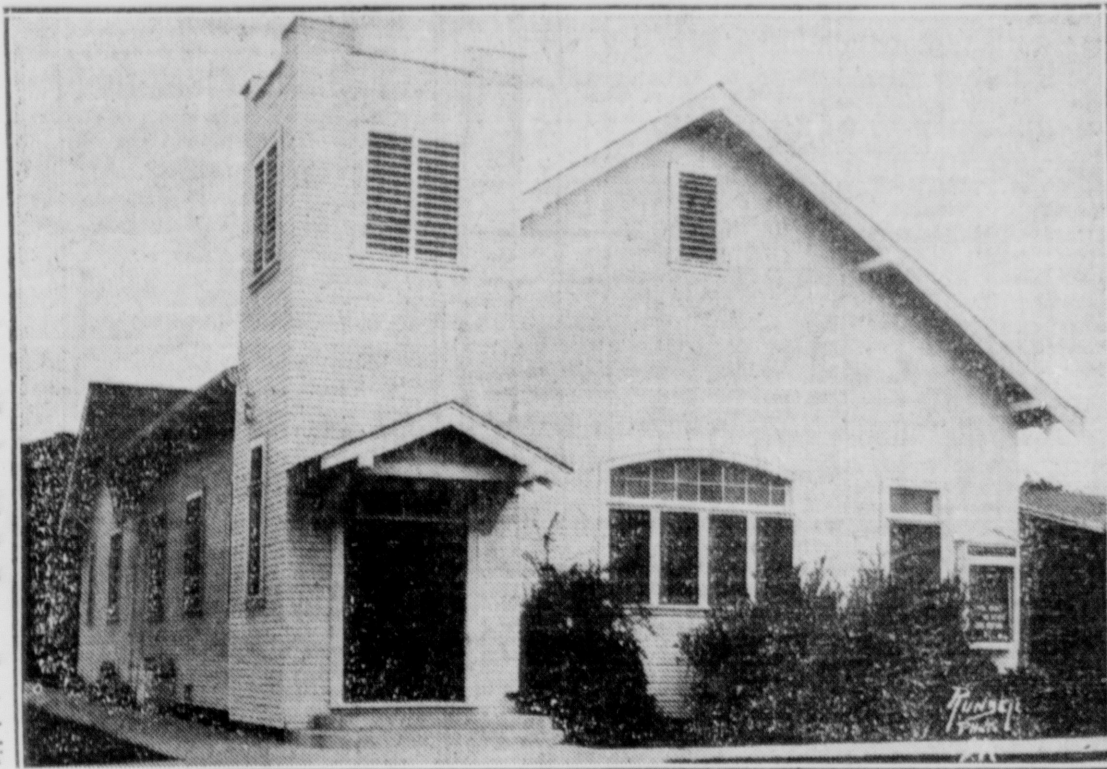

Peter's confession, "Son of the Living God," was not a mere accidental accumulation of empty words, nor an expression of man's impression of this stranger of Galilee, but a divine revelation from "My Father which is in Heaven."

This statement, "Son of the living God," and associate claims of His deity, are the foundation principles upon which the Christian Church is built. If these fundamental doctrines are not true, then the whole structure of Christian teaching is wrong. Truth, religious or irreligious, is built upon facts. If Jesus Christ was not the "Son of the living God," in the relation He claimed to be, then He was only a man, an imposter of the lowest type. Not even a "good example," as some who deny His deity would suggest. If He was not the "Son of God," then He was not divine in His incarnation; He was false in His teaching. His death was the death of a criminal, His resurrection was a fake, and His ascension a lie, and the Holy Ghost never came.

The truth of these Bible records are the foundation stones upon which the Church stands. Destroy faith in these facts and you have destroyed the Church. They have been its support for the centuries of the past. But if the Church does not demonstrate to a Christ-rejecting world the truth of these principles, how shall the world know the truth?

The angels' message, "He shall save His people from their sins," must be demonstrated. How deplorable to hear, from those who profess to love the Church, that they do not know what it means to be "born again," and that they have never attained unto an experience of salvation that saved, and then keeps them saved "from sin," with no personal revelation that Christ is "the Son of the living God," knowing nothing of the personal indwelling of the Holy Spirit. So such, religion is merely a social affair, the Church a place of entertainment or Sunday pastime, and then go home and live the rest of the time as the devil wants them to live, or like the one who makes no profession of religion. How sad that multitudes of professing Christians revel in sin with the world, excusing themselves by saying that they are "doing the best they can" while indulging in such sins which God's book plainly states, "They which do such things shall not inherit the Kingdom of God." Gal. 5:21. But of still greater concern to the Church of Jesus Christ and the world as well, are the misleading instructions from the lips of a hireling ministry, who tell their people that they cannot expect to be free from the bondage of all sin, and live a life of true holiness and live up to the standard that God in His book commands.

The world has a right to see in the lives of the Church, the teachings of Christ exemplified. They want to see it work.

Mennonite Brethren Church, Olive and Sycamore Sts., Orange

Sunday School, 9:30 A. M.; Morning Service, 11 A. M.
Young People's Society, 6:30 P. M.
Evening Service, 7:30 P. M.
Prayer Meeting, Wednesday, 7:30 P. M.

Jesus said to the fallen woman, "Go and sin no more." Would He not say the same to us today, regardless of the nature of our sin? Why bring reproach upon the greatest institution of mankind, by failing to live what we profess? Why question His being the "Son of the living God" by doubting His miraculous conception and all His claims of Sonship, His life of service and blessing, when by so doing we undermine the faith of those whom we would lead to the Church, and thus destroy the thing we profess to represent? What a world this would be if we would follow the teachings of the "Son of God."

It is up to the Church these days to meet the challenge of the world, and prove to them not by argument, but by sincere Christlike living, in business and social life, that the principles of the Christian Church are true and that Christ is the "Son of the living God." The Church is the salt of the earth," but if the salt has lost its savor, it is cast out and trodden under the foot of men . . . so shall it be with the Church if we fail to meet the challenge. His blood has not been shed in vain. We are redeemed, not with corruptible things, such as gold or silver, but by the precious blood of Jesus, "The Son of the Living God."

"Let us earnestly contend for the faith once delivered unto the Saints."

The Times watched brave Scouty ride the bumping cart, and Doty cried, "stick with it, lad. The ride is rough, but don't fall to the ground."

"The bear is frisky as can be and how you hang on I can't see. However, you are doing fine. I guess you're safe and sound."

"Aw," Scouty shouted. "Don't you loose. This bear can't shake me free, I'll bet. I've ridden kicking bronchos. This is really not so bad."

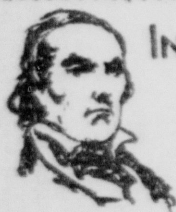

"No, it's really funny, but I'll be glad when we reach the hut. Gee, if the bear forgets to stop there, it will be too bad."

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

IN DEFENSE OF THE UNION

FOURTEEN-YEAR-OLD Daniel Webster could not find his tongue when called upon to speak before his class. Yet that frightened schoolboy became America's most brilliant orator, and greatest defender of a united nation.

Born in 1782, probably the first of the log-cabin school of statesmen, Webster took to the law and entered Congress in 1813. For most of the next 37 years he served as representative and senator from Massachusetts, and twice became secretary of state. His oratory was supreme. His opponents could not face his withering logic. Yet, with all his brilliance, he twice failed to attain the presidency.

The climax of his oratorical career was his famous reply to South Carolina's senator, Robert Y. Hayne, who had threatened secession in his opposition to a protective tariff. Rising in defense of the Union, Webster held his listeners spellbound for four hours, and ended with the memorable words "Liberty and Union, now and forever, one and inseparable."

In 1902, a Daniel Webster stamp was issued, on the 50th anniversary of his death. In 1933, another stamp commemorated the 150th anniversary of Webster's birth.

SEE ORANGE COUNTY FIRST

There's nothing more beautiful in nature's handiwork than mid-spring in Southern California. In common with other sections of the state, Orange county today is knee-deep in the season of natural splendor throughout the countryside. The time is here to take advantage of and to enjoy the gorgeous colorings afforded in countless spots where hillside and valleys are aflame with flowers.

Perhaps on Sunday you plan to drive the family into the country through vales and along canyon ribbons.

Everywhere is to be found the beauty of Southern California flora, now rising to the crest of seasonal brilliancy. In the yards of city and urban homes, on the slopes and along the highways—they are there in glorified profusion.

Not far from Santa Ana, if you head for Newport, Balboa or Laguna, is a rare treat for flower lovers. It is the spot off Ocean Drive in Newport Heights at The Arches' intersection of State Route 55 where 101 Coast highway rolls off southward through dipping hills on the way to San Diego.

At this junction—up to the left as you turn south—on a landscaped hillside is festooned one of the county's beauty spots, a sight that prompts tourists to pause in admiration. It is the floral haven created by Newport Beach officials to replace what once was a shaggy slope inhabited for the most part by cactuses and unsightly weeds.

This hillside flowerland runs down from Ocean Drive in the Heights where one may look out across the bay and peninsula in panoramic survey of the Pacific coastline.

From a distance the hill presents a solid bed of purple velvet from which arise stately palm trees. At the bottom of the graceful, terraced slope is a border of hedged geraniums—just red enough to set the picture off.

The abundant blooms, a solid mass of spreading flowers, are Mesembryanthemums, called "ice plants" by the Japanese.

There are many of them, too, on the floral embankment at the Newport Heights home of L. A. Cox, adjoining this Orange county show place on the drive.

A bank of them in front of the country place of Charles Beecher, Newport Beach boat builder, a half mile east of The Arches, presents a miniature water fall in purple splendor.

These comprise at-random examples of the beauty to be seen within short driving distance—for Orange county offers many natural attractions to the native, as well as to the visitor.

For instance, there is Irvine Park in Santiago Canyon, long noted for its scenic charm and beautiful wild flowers. On the canyon drive can be seen the rare Matilija poppy, Coreopsis, Lupine, Lilacs and Buckthorn.

Southern California is ablaze now with the artistic work of Nature. So, when you start off on that springtime motor jaunt tomorrow, why not see Orange county first?

COMPETITION THE WAY OUT

Walter Lippmann, columnist for the New York Herald-Tribune, very clearly sets forth his belief that competition is the only way to the restoration of full employment.

In a syndicated article, he points out that both Hoover and Roosevelt have been advocating monopolies and control; the only difference being that of degree. He explains that there are two sharply contradictory policies at work and two opposing philosophies. He says:

"One of these is the old-fashioned scheme of increasing business by lowering the price, by giving more value for the same money or the same value for less money. The other is politically called stabilization: It used to be called monopoly and restraint of trade. It consists in maintaining the price, of closing down the plant rather than to sell at a price low enough to attract customers. Broadly speaking, the industries which have practiced competition have had the smallest amount of unemployment and the most substantial recovery, whereas, those which have insisted on keeping themselves stabilized on a high and rigid price level have provided the least work and are still the most depressed."

This philosophy, it seems to us, started in 1913 with the passage of the Clayton Amendment amending the Sherman Anti-Trust Law, permitting certain groups to combine for restraint of trade; with the passage of the Income Tax Law, taxing production instead of consumption; and with the passage of the Federal Reserve Act, which resulted in greatly increasing bank credit used as money. People, even back in 1913, began to believe that competition was not necessary; that wealth could be created by increasing the credit of the country. In 1929, they commenced to find out that this did not work. Instead of going back to competition, which has been the only way in all history that real progress has ever been made, we are starting another period of trying to create wealth by creating government credit.

Walter Lippmann very clearly sums up the importance of competition, as follows: "Competition offers, too, the only way to the restoration of full employment. For it is plain that if no one will sell except at more than the market price, and no one will work at less than a wage which is above the market, and no one will go off the relief rolls unless the wage is much higher than the dole, there must be permanent depression, permanent unemployment and a permanent dole. They are made permanent by the refusal to sell goods and to go to work for less than arbitrarily fixed prices and wages. And we shall have just as much slack business and just as much unemployment and just as large relief rolls as we consent to have. It is a matter of letting prices, wages and the dole remain fixed above the rate at which the market will absorb goods and labor."

The Least We Can Do is To Hire a Competent Guardian

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Small wonder that the word "uncertainty" is written large in the business and financial world today. Washington is full of the same thing.

To begin with, the secretary of the treasury finally confirms what has been suspected for a long time, namely that President Roosevelt was unduly optimistic when he predicted in a message to congress that this year would be one of receding deficits in the budget.

Mr. Morgenthau concedes that the deficit will run close to $6,000,000 which is a record high for peace-time deficits.

The question of who is to blame now enters the controversy. The new deal seeks to place the blame for $2,225,000,000 on the soldier bonus and $500,000,000 on the supreme court for its AAA decision, and the remainder on the "relief of unemployment."

The other side of the argument is that the soldiers have had $2,225,000,000 or thereabouts due them in 1942, and the payment this year is in the nature of a pre-payment; the public debt never did reflect the contingent liability, though congress several years ago committed the country to the expenditure. So the soldiers alone aren't to blame for this year's deficit, especially since an overwhelming majority of both houses, including Republicans as well as Democrats, voted for it.

As for the $500,000,000 lost on processing taxes, this is the responsibility of the new deal. There is ample reason all along for believing that a majority of the supreme court would hold to the traditional view on the matter of the taxing power. Hence, the enactment of AAA in the face of precedent was a risk taken by the new deal that now has to be paid for.

This leaves the question of why the deficit in excess of about $3,000,000,000 is being incurred for the fourth successive fiscal year of the Roosevelt administration. The answer is that the new deal has spent big sums in experimenting with the economic system and has succeeded in producing unemployment almost as rapidly as private industry has been able to absorb large numbers of unemployed.

Slowly the truth is coming out, for instance, as to the amount of agricultural labor displaced by the AAA. For, as acreage was cut down, many farm workers were made idle and forced on relief.

Mr. Roosevelt's contention now—and it is echoed by many senators on the Democratic side—is that national income has gone up considerably in the last three years. The president in his New York speech said the national income had risen from $35,000,000,000 in 1932 to $65,000,000,000 in 1935.

There is something wrong with these figures. Apparently someone misinformed the president or he has some figures or calculations never before revealed to the public. The best official data available heretofore are that the national income amounted to $39,000,000,000 in 1932 and the latest figures are for 1935, which show about $54,000,000,000. Any such jump in income from $54,000,000,000 to $65,000,000,000 would be sensational, and, since the year 1935 is only about one-quarter through, it is a mere matter of conjecture what the 1936 national income will look like anyhow.

On the basis of the best available data, the president is deviating from hitherto accepted data by about $15,000,000,000 in the spread from 1932 to 1935.

But the big question is what percentage of the national income goes to the people for their own expenditure and what percentage is paid to government in the form of taxes. The percentage of taxes to national income has been rising. It has gone from 12.4 per cent in 1929 to 19.1 per cent in 1935, and, judging by the big increases in the form of payroll taxes and other levies being imposed by the present congress and yet to be imposed in order to balance the budget, the percentage will rise considerably higher.

Mr. Roosevelt in effect says, "never mind about the balanced budget, it will take care of itself—keep your eye on the rising national income."

To all this, the taxpayers may in effect reply: "Keep your eye, Uncle Sam, on that budget, or the amount of taxes that have to be paid will absorb so much of the national income as to break down the economic mechanism and force a government control and socialistic system."

Some day, the new dealers will ask the taxpayers if they would be willing to go back to Hoover and the answer may be—"Not Hoover, but 1928, when Coolidge was president." In that year, the national income was $30,000,000,000, and yet the total cost of the federal government was about $5,100,000,000, so that today the "normal" federal deficit alone amounts to what it used to cost the American people for government. In other lost processing taxes, the "planned economy" of the new deal has resulted in a $3,000,000,000 deficit which, added to the other appropriations of a spendthrift congress, gives the nation a gross deficit of $6,000,000,000 to reckon with this year.

Ma was sewing on her sewing machine and I said, Hay ma, I've got a trade last for you. Some lady said a compliment about you, I said.

Who was it? What did she say? Ma said, and I said, I'm not going to tell you till you give me my trade first.

Well let me see, I can't remember anything on the offhand spur of the moment, ma said. Was it one of the 2 ladies that called on me yesterday afternoon? she said, and I said, Yes but I'm not going to tell you what she said till you tell me a compliment somebody said about me.

Well O yes, come to think of it, somebody said you were a very nice little boy, and it was one of those very same ladies, ma said, and I said, Aw G, you're just making that up, and anyways that's a heck of a compliment. It's got to be by somebody my own age, I said.

All right, I'll tell you one that was said by a boy exactly your age, ma said, and I said, Will you cross your heart you heard him say it?

Cross my heart, ma said. He said when it comes to shooting marbles you're the champion of the whole block, she said, and I said, G, who said that?

You'll find out as soon as you tell me mine, ma said. Which lady was it, the one in the green dress? she said, and I said, No nam the one without. You went to tell Nora to make some tea and she said, Do you know, Minnie, Pawleen's figure would be real attractive if she took some of the weight from around it, I said.

Why, of all the vicious cats, ma said, and I said, Now tell me who said about me and marbles.

You did, ma said. You were bragging about yourself at lunch time. You can't deny you're a boy exactly your own age, hee hee, can you? she said, and I said, Well aw heck, ma, G roozalem, I don't call that any compliment.

Then that makes us even, ma said.

Meaning she didn't call mine any either.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

AS YOU THINK

"My mother taught me that it was not the hard work that I did that wearied me. It was the way I thought about it. When I learned to think happily it did not tire me nearly so much."

That thought was sent to me in a letter from a mother who was proving the truth of her own words. She and her husband, with a family of children and a couple of grandparen's, were working out their own living problems on a farm among the mountains of the West. They were all very happy because they had learned to think happily as they worked.

They kept thinking, for example, how much they had to be thankful for. Nobody was sick in the family. Every one could get about and make himself useful doing his share of the work. Each, as he worked, thought of the others, for whom he was willing and glad to do his job. Doing it well would make them more comfortable, bring them more joy. That thought made work lighter.

There was a garden to keep along with the other things. Keeping a garden is mighty hard work, unless you have another thought about it. If, as you push in the spade, you think of the fine crop that is to come; if, as you pull out the weeds, you think of the food you have saved for the growing plants, and of how much they will add to the beauty or to the health of the others; if, as you pick the berries or gather the vegetables, you think of the smiles they will bring when they appear on the table, the whole job seems easier, lighter, lovelier.

Most of us have to do ordinary jobs one after the other all day long and do them day after day.

They become tedious and begin to wear us down with their monotony. If we dedicate those tasks to people we love, to causes for which we long to give ourselves, for some purpose close to our hearts, the dreariness and the fatigue are reduced to the minimum. We begin singing again as we bend to the task.

Looking forward instead of holding our eyes on the immediate duty helps to ease the burden of daily work. The mother who tends her little ones day by day thinks, "By and by they will grow up and go to school and out to work and away to homes of their own. They will be fine men and women and I will be proud and glad they are my children."

The thought that the routine of baths and bottles and diets and rules is to create a finely reared young man, a finely educated young woman, takes the curse off the heart, the dreariness and the plane of high service.

We can teach something of this to children. It is hard for them to understand why they have to do some of the things they are asked to do. They have to give up play, pleasures of all kinds, personal wishes, and they do not know why. Someone wants them to do a job, learn a lesson, carry responsibility. If they once get the notion that what they are doing is to be useful in promoting some dream, some ideal some deep wish, if they can be shown that their work helps someone they love, their thoughts as they work will not only relieve them of pressure, but will inspire them with a will and a power foreign to grudging, shirking, whining performance.

THE PATCHWORK QUILT

By Eleanor Young Elliott

(Have You Any Patches to Add to It?)

FORGOTTEN

I have forgotten you. The moon hangs low.

That little maiden moon that someone said

Was like a candle's friendly peace-glow

To guide a weary wanderer home to bed.

Who was it said that, one spring night to me

Just as a moth from out the shadows flew?

I cannot say, perhaps it was a dream,

I do not know. I have forgotten you.

I have forgotten you. From flower-starred grove

A fragrant breath of air comes drifting by

That someone said was like a treasure trove

Of sweetness breathed by angels when they sigh.

Who was it said that, one spring night to me

In that hushed hour when falls the evening dew?

Perhaps I only read it in a book,

I do not know. I have forgotten you.

CHRONICLES OF THE LITTLE GRAY HOUSE

The green little frog is back in our neighbor's pool. Or if not the same frog, at least one equally cheerful, piping his lays to the world, his joy in the lily pads of the pool, in the brief spring rain that sifted through the meshes of the sky, in the music provided by the canaries in their nearby aviary, and most of all, in the bountiful supply of goldfish that he seems to think Providence has placed in the pool for his special delectation.

"Does the frog annoy you? queried our neighbor. Annoy us? That frog is one of the pleasantest features of the evenings at the Little Gray House. He sings—croaks if you insist—so bravely and so happily. We like it."

Perhaps we are even fonder of him than is our neighbor. She has a pronounced feeling of dismay as she sees her goldfish disappear. Slaughtered to make—if not a Roman, at least a frogfish—holiday. But surely one small frog can't destroy all the goldfish in the pool.

It makes us wish for a pool too, as company for the Shaggy Plum Tree, the Green Orange Tree and the Jeweled Avocado. I think we'll have to plan for one as soon as one of the Tall Sons returns. Then perhaps we too may have a specimen of the genus Rana Temporalis to reign temporarily over our domain.

ONE MORNING I awoke one warm bright morning As the sun came over the hill And frightened the little dewdrop From off my window sill.

It dropped into the flowers And hid a time, may be, While I lay wishing—wishing That sun and dew could agree.

Then that makes us even, ma said.

Meaning she didn't call mine any either.

THE QUILT

This is a piece of my wedding dress (Love and laughter and tenderness).

This piece of muslin, color of corn, I made right after our John was born

(No color so happy I thing as yellow).

The blue was a shirt for the little fellow.

The green was Mattie's, Ruth had

They never had dresses as pretty as those.

This piece was Ruth's, this misty gray

(She wore that dress when she ran away).

Mat wore that crimson to many a dance.

I hid that tan when John was in France.

He never came back. I like this blue

Mat had for her wedding (and she was true).

There's people that wonder why I should sew

To a piece of this black but he had to go

And he was my husband for many a year.

I have sewed the colors of life all clear,

Darkness of sorrow, and joy unshaded,

I have been thankful none have faded.
